Aluminum Firms Okay Contracts Union-Steel Talks Resume Amid Exchange of Criticisms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Union and steel company negotiators meet today for the first time in 10 days. As they gathered, the companies were saying new and higher union demands prove the union is responsible for the deadlock.

Union President David J. McDonald retorted it is the companies that are out of step.

The United Steelworkers reached new three-year contract agreements with major aluminum companies in Chicago over the weekend, clearing the way for their top officers to resume the steel talks. Federal mediators had recessed the talks for aluminum industry negotiations.

As the aluminum settlement took form, McDonald issued last week a new 10-point steel demand.

The eleven big steel replied in a letter to McDonald made public Sunday night.

"The union's prior offers were unacceptable to the companies," the letter said, "because of their inflationary proportions. Yet you now seek to impose even more onerous terms of settlement."

"This, we submit, is the very antithesis of union responsibility. It proves beyond question that it is the union's policies and bargaining practices that have been solely responsible for the continuing deadlock."

The companies also said they had "serious misgivings" about bargaining separately with the union, as McDonald has demanded. But they said they were willing to talk it over at today's mediation session.

McDonald said Sunday night he had not received the companies' letter.

"The steel companies, continuing to practice industrial isolationism, seem totally oblivious of the union's recent settlements in the copper, can and aluminum industries," he commented. "All of these settlements were regarded by the public, the industries and the union to be moderate, fair and reasonable."

"The union's present proposal to the steel companies is based

Hopes For Heir to Throne

Shah of Iran Takes Commoner As Bride

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Young Farah Diba became queen of Iran today amid hopes that she will provide a son and heir for the throne.

With radiant smiles the 21-year old brunette with brown eyes and light olive complexion married Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi in a Moslem ritual in the marble palace.

She thus became Queen Farah Pahlavi.

It was the first marriage for the young Iranian commoner, who until recently was a student in architecture in Paris. It was the third marriage for the Shah, who at 40 still hopes for a son to succeed him.

The couple sat and stood through a Moslem ceremony and the signing of the marriage contract in the glittering Hall of Mirrors. Members of the family, members of the government and their wives and the diplomatic corps of Tehran look on.

The bride wore a flowing bluish, pearl gray wedding gown. Farah forsook the traditional white in favor of a shade specially designed for her by Yves Saint Laurent, head of the Paris house of Dior. The shade is just a bit off white in pearl gray with a slight tinge of blue.

The Shah wore a full ceremonial dress of dark imperial blue trousers and a navy blue coat covered with medals.

The capital was in a gay, festive spirit. Flags flapped in the breeze. Many buildings were decorated with bunting and the national colors.

The Shah divorced his first two wives because they failed to bear him an heir to the throne. The first wife, an Egyptian princess, bore him a daughter, Princess Shamsa.

He divorced Queen Soraya 20 months ago after a childless but obviously happy marriage. The red-haired Iranian beauty now lives in Europe.

Speaking to newsmen Sunday, the Shah explained that aside from human reasons, he is marrying Farah for reasons "of a monarchial order." Iran's constitution requires that the successor to the throne be a male, and the Shah has no son.

The throne itself is ancient and rich in history—but the Shah's family is not. His father, Reza Khan, was a rough army officer who seized power in 1921 and had himself crowned Shah in - Shah (King of Kings) four years later.

A shah without an heir is obviously not as secure as a monarch whose line of succession is clearly fixed. The Shah himself has openly acknowledged the possibility of assassination. The absence of an heir in such a situation would be an invitation to political chaos.

The marriage rites were surrounded by the ornate splendor of ancient Persia.

The scene of the ceremony was the Shah's office, known as the Mosaic Room.

The couple will start their honeymoon in a few days on the Caspian Sea. They plan a trip early next year to Pakistan and later to Europe.

Nehru Rejects Chou's Offer On Dispute

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru today rejected Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai's offer to meet this week on the India-China border dispute.

The Indian leader told Parliament that he had replied to Peiping that preliminary discussions would be necessary to make a top-level conference worthwhile.

Chou had suggested in a letter a week ago that Nehru meet him next Saturday either in China or Rangoon, Burma, to discuss in detail the conflicting border claims.

The Chinese Premier had proposed both countries withdraw their forces 12 miles from their present positions — a move that would leave the Communists still in control of thousands of miles of territory claimed by India.

Nehru described Chou's proposal as "merely a reiteration of claims to extensive areas in our territory." He called on Peiping for a fuller explanation of Chinese claims before meeting with Chou.

The Indian Prime Minister said "I do not see how any agreement can be reached" so long as the basic positions are not clarified.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru of India sees some signs of an easing in the border dispute between his country and Communist China.

In a taped interview for CBS-TV "Face the Nation" Sunday, Nehru noted evidence that the Chinese may want to end the dispute peacefully.

"I must accept Mr. (foreign minister) Chou En-lai's word," Nehru said. "He says he wants to do so (end the dispute) and he has offered to meet me."

In another interview, copyrighted by the magazine U.S. News and World Report, Nehru said he believed that the Soviet Union was trying to restrain Red China from going too far in the dispute.

Last Civil War Veteran Dies

Walter W. Williams Brings End to Era

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The last of the faded ranks of the Blue and the Gray, Walter W. Williams, lay in state today in a gray and gold uniform symbolizing his beloved Confederacy he served nearly a century ago.

The nation's flags flew at half-staff by executive order in honor of the Civil War's last survivor, his comrades and the soldiers of the Union.

"With millions of Americans throughout our land, I pause in respectful silence," President Eisenhower said in a statement released by the White House.

Williams won countless battles against serious illness in recent years. He died Saturday of complications that followed his fourth attack of pneumonia since summer.

Relatives placed his age at 117. "The wounds of the deep and bitter dispute which once divided our nation have long since healed, and a united America in a divided world now holds up on a larger canvas the cherished traditions of liberty and justice for all," the President said.

"No longer are they the Blue and the Gray. All rest together as Americans in honored glory. An era has ended."

Tributes also came from many other public officials, along with messages of sympathy from citizens of all walks of life.

Texas Gov. Price Daniel and South Carolina Gov. Fritz Hollings paid their respects personally. They were here on a weekend visit.

The body lay in a specially designed casket of solid copper tinged with gray. On its velvet inner lining rested five white stars of the honorary rank of general given him by a service organization.

The old soldier will rest in the rotunda of the Harris County Civil Courts building for 48 hours, an honor guard of 4th U.S. Army soldiers at his side.

Federal, state and local governments will pay tribute to him Tuesday night in special services at the Houston Music Hall.

A military procession will escort the body to the South Main Baptist Church for funeral services at 11 a.m. Wednesday. Graveside military rites will be held in the small town of Franklin, Tex., about 125 miles northwest of here.

The procession will include a 25-man life and drum corps of the Sons of Union Veterans of Mount Vernon, Ohio, birthplace of the composer of the song "Dixie"—one of Williams' life-long favorites. Williams listed his service connection as a forage master in Company C, Fifth Regiment of

Driver Killed As Auto Skids In Snow, Upsets

David Neimark, 59, of Youngstown, Victim; Probe Other Mishaps

A 59-year-old Youngstown motorist was killed instantly this morning at Rt. 164, about 2.5 miles south of Youngstown, when his auto skidded on the snow-covered road and crashed.

The southbound auto, driven by David Neimark of 432 Cohasset Dr., rolled over several times after sliding off the right side of the highway. The accident occurred at 6:25 a.m., the Canfield post-highway patrol said.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at 7 a.m. at Youngstown South Side Hospital. Mahoning County Coroner Dr. D. A. Belinky said the man died of a fractured skull and a broken neck.

Other Area Accidents
Icy roads and poor visibility during the weekend resulted in several area accidents, according to local police and Lisbon post-highway patrolmen.

Two cars collided at E. State St. and Fair Ave. at 8 this morning when Anese L. Gilby, 33, of RD 5, Salem pulled out of Fair Ave. and into the path of a car driven by Owen M. Witmer, 25, of RD 5, Salem, police said. Gilby was charged with reckless operation.

Ralph P. Wainscoy, 46, of RD 3, Salem, was cited by city police for reckless operation after his auto struck the rear of a car driven by Viola J. Wickline, 27, of RD 5, Salem. The mishap occurred Friday at 10:47 a.m. on E. State St. in front of City Hospital.

A car operated by Michi Jacobson, 43, of RD 3, Salem, backed into an auto owned by Joseph J. Armeni, 34, of 927 Barkley Ave. in a private parking lot at 190 Penn St. Saturday at 8 p.m.

Shortly after 6 p.m. Saturday, cars driven by Bert K. Phillips, 77, of RD 1, Salem, and Joseph Jno-vick, 71, of 440 W. State St. collided as the latter driver attempted to turn into his driveway, police said.

A Pittsburgh motorist, Thomas Yeckley Sr., 32, rolled his auto Saturday morning when he lost control of his car after it struck a patch of rough dirt on a curve. The accident occurred at 8:20 a.m. on Rt. 30, about eight miles north of East Liverpool.

A small pickup truck and another truck collided on Rt. 62, about two miles west of Salem. Drivers of the vehicles were Frank McConnell, 39, of Paris, O., and Warren E. Stewart, 66, of MC 1, Salem. Stewart was treated at Central Clinic for contusions of the head following the 10:30 a.m. accident on Saturday.

Elizabeth C. Amers, 40, of New Springfield was arrested Saturday for failure to yield the right of way.

Father Sees Wife, Daughter Here for First Time in 16 Years Displaced Family Is Reunited

Through the efforts of two Salem industrialists, a reunited European family will be spending their first Christmas together in 16 years.

War, the Iron Curtain and "red tape" kept Martin Alzner separated from his wife and daughter for almost 17 years. Alzner, a native of Transylvania, came to the United States and Salem in September of 1956 as a displaced person from Germany.

Since then he has been employed at the Salem Fabricating and Machine Co.

Friday, the 48-year-old Alzner met his wife, Regina, and daughter, Anna, 18, at the Pittsburgh airport. Anna was only 22 months old the last time the Alznars had been together. Martin was home on furlough from the German army at the time.

The Alznars made their home in Transylvania, a country which was given to Romania after World War I. Hitler swallowed up the country early in World War II and drafted all able-bodied men into the German army.

When Russia re-took the land, Mrs. Alzner was captured and sent to a labor camp in the Soviet Union.

She remained there for three and a half years before being sent back to Romania which was controlled by the Communists.

Her husband was captured by the American army near Berlin and at the end of the war was released to West Germany where he made his home in Munich. He remained there until 1956, trying unsuccessfully to get his wife and daughter out of Romania.

After Alzner came to the United States, Howard Smith, vice president of the Salem Fabricat-

2-Inch Snowfall Here Leaves Roads Slippery

Weather prognosticators wouldn't predict a white Christmas, however, in view of a warming trend that is expected to last for about five days, with temperatures eight degrees above normal.

The reading at noon today was an even freezing 32.

Today's snowfall — light but steady — began late Sunday night and continued without letup. By 11 a.m. today it measured two inches.

Streets and sidewalks were slippery and several persons were known to have fallen. One victim, Mrs. Edith Weikart of RD 5, Salem, slipped and fell in the driveway at City Hospital, where she is employed, and fractured her right wrist. She was admitted to the hospital.

City trucks were busy salting down intersections and county and state highway road crews were busy on the main thoroughfares, spreading salt and ashes.

Most highways were hazardous early this morning and the State Patrol urged drivers use extreme caution when venturing out. State and county highway department road crews were called out early today to ash snow-covered roads.

Gay Zellers of Columbiana, in charge of the state highway department garage at Leetonia, said he has 16 trucks at work on 287 miles of highway. They began at 5 a.m.

The county highway department went to work at 7 a.m. with 12 trucks and three graders, according to John (Dick) Neill, superintendent.

Lisbon police said the snow began about 2 a.m., although there was a light fall earlier last night.

Ike Greeted By Franco In Madrid

MADRID (AP) — President Eisenhower arrived in Madrid today, carrying his mission of peace and friendship to the 10th nation on his 11-nation tour of three continents.

He was greeted by Generalissimo Francisco Franco, who considers this presidential visit a tribute to his steadfast support of the Western allies against communism.

Eisenhower flew in from Paris, where the Western Big Three wound up a top-level meeting with an invitation to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to a series of summit meetings on cold war issues.

In Madrid, a city always ready for gaiety, the fiesta began Sunday night. Young people sang and

Western Big 3 Okay Opening Session April 27

Participation of Germany, Red China, India Ruled Out

PARIS (AP) — President Eisenhower sent a letter to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev today "inviting him to the first of a series of summit meetings, to consider international questions of mutual concern."

Similar letters are going from the British and French chiefs of government, as a followup to their Western summit conference over the weekend.

Eisenhower said this meeting agreed it is desirable that the East-West summit session "convene from time to time in each other's countries to discuss the main problems affecting the attainment of peace and stability in the world."

To Convene April 27
The first meeting will convene in Paris April 27 if Khrushchev accepts the arrangements.

The Big Three, in their invitations to the Soviet leader, ruled out the participation of divided Germany, Red China and India.

Eisenhower said goodbye to Paris after a brief meeting today with British Minister Harold Macmillan, French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. He flew to Madrid.

The ceremonies of his departure from Paris were unusually brief. Mounting the steps of his orange-nosed jetliner, after the playing of the Star Spangled Banner and the Marseillaise, he turned and said "goodbye."

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said the "President thinks the accomplishments were fine" at the four-power Western summit. In his private talks with De Gaulle, however, the President apparently failed to win De Gaulle over to the American view that French air forces should be integrated into the NATO command.

Reaffirmed West's Determination
The communique from the Big Three reaffirmed the West's determination to yield no basic rights in divided Berlin. It "reaffirmed the principles set forth in a four-power communique of the 14th of December, 1958, and the declaration of the North Atlantic Council of the 16th of December, 1958."

These documents, pledging to defend Berlin against Soviet aggression, represent a return to early Western positions in the Geneva foreign ministers conference this year.

That conference ended in deadlock after the West proposed concessions to get an interim settlement in Berlin. These concessions now apparently are out. They included a trimming of forces and some curbing of propaganda in Berlin, and treating with East Germans as agents of the Soviet Union on the subject of communication lines.

Hagerty said Eisenhower, however, felt there is ample room for discussing any and all problems involving Berlin.

Do Not Commit President
Hagerty also said the idea for the series of summit meetings does not commit the next American president. The April meeting likely would be the only such meeting in 1960, since the U.S. presidential campaign will get under full steam next summer.

The Western view limiting the conference to the Big Four powers was made in instructions which the ambassadors in Moscow make orally to the Soviet Union.

U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson was told to make it

Shotgun Blast Ends Family Quarrel

CINCINNATI (AP) — Norman New, 16, is a thin, pale youngster who didn't go to school because he had to stay home and care for his four-month-old sister.

Early Sunday Norman with his 20-gauge shotgun killed his father, Osborne New, 39, in the living room of their second-floor apartment, police said.

Later, Norman tried to talk about the early - morning nightmare as he sat in the Youth Center, where he was held. His mother, Mrs. Onie New, sat beside him.

"I don't know if I done the right thing or the wrong thing," he blurted. "Whatever I done, I'll pay for it."

Eyes red-rimmed and hands trembling, (Norman told how he got out of bed around 2:30 a.m. to find his father beating his mother and threatening the life of the baby, Leona, as she lay in her cradle.

"He was mean drunk," the boy said. "He had been drinking beer at home all day. He had just went to the saloon to get six more cans."

"I was in bed in the next room and my sister (Betty, 10) woke me up. She said 'Get up he's beating on Mom and he says he is going to kill the baby.'"

"I heard Mom yell. He was leaning over reaching for the baby. He said he would whop it against the wall and kill it. He knocked the television set over."

Norman said he went back to his room to get the gun. He had bought it for hunting, using the $5 a week his mother paid him for baby-sitting. He loaded it.

"I thought I could hold it on him and tell him to quit," he said. "I sure didn't think I would use it. The gun just went off. It just went off."

Norman sobbed. His mother, a small, slender woman of 38, patted him on the back. Her face showed no expression.

"Don't worry, son," she said. Mrs. New said her son had never been in trouble before and was always obedient, as good or "And he takes care of the baby better than I can do."

"I think the world of that little baby," Norman volunteered. "I couldn't stand seeing him threaten a little baby like that."

Bomb Explodes In Cleveland Man's Car

CLEVELAND (AP) — A bomb placed under the hood of an automobile—but believed not large enough to cause physical damage to the driver—exploded 10 minutes after a 40-year-old woman parked the vehicle in Shaker Heights Sunday.

The explosion twisted the hood and split the radiator of the car owned by the president of a general contracting firm.

Shaker Heights Police Chief Horley M. Benethum said the bomb probably was the work of a juvenile, a crank or a third person acquaintance of Miss Alberta M. Blum, the woman who parked the car, and William J. Schirmer, owner of the car.

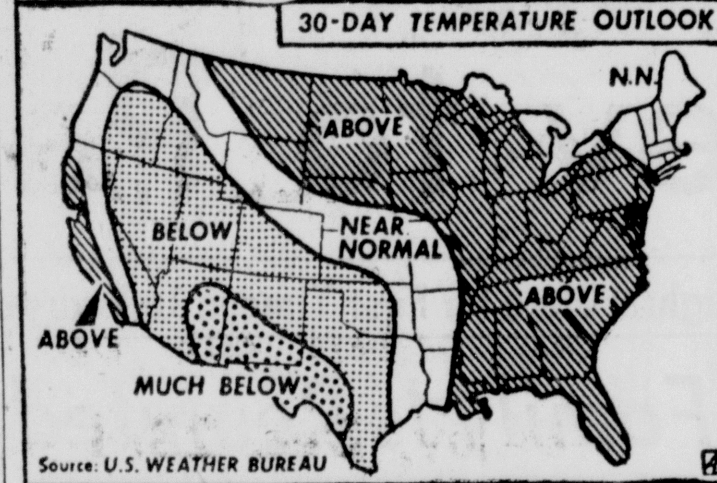

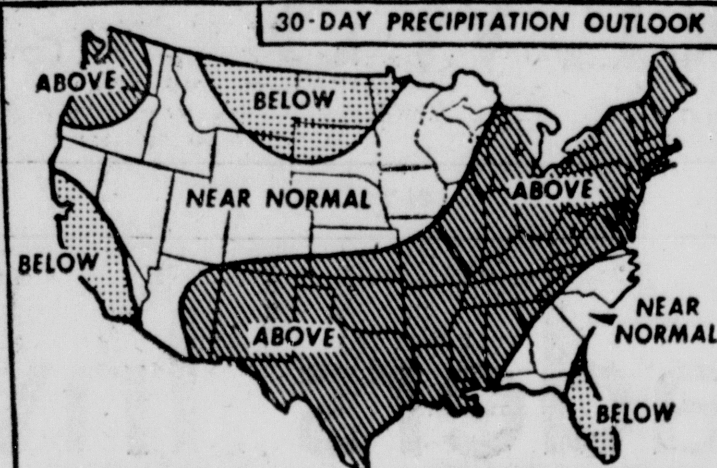

Schirmer, president of the Schirmer-Peterson Co., the general contractor for the Cleveland Stadium and the outpatient building at Metropolitan General Hospital, was at a party Saturday night with Miss Blum.

She drove him home, then took the car to her house. She planned to pick up Schirmer for church services in the morning, Miss Blum said.

Police said Schirmer was divorced in 1939. Miss Blum is a secretary at the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. She was placed under sedation after the explosion and was not available for comment. Schirmer also was unavailable to discuss the incident.

However, Charles F. Schirmer, a brother and an official of the building firm, commented on the bomb:

"I am sure it is not a labor dispute. We have never had any union trouble."

Listing of New Books at Salem Public Library

Two books on military matters are worthy of special attention.

Lynn Montross has compiled a pictorial history of the Marine Corps from Colonial days to the present. Most of the pictures in "The United States Marines" are from official records.

Although General Pickett was not a Marine, he led a charge during the Battle of Gettysburg that was in keeping with the Marine tradition. George Stewart has investigated the records and reminiscences left by the men who fought on both sides while preparing the book, "Pickett's Charge."

NEW FICTION
"Call on Kwukuprin" by Maurice Edelman. Two men are sent to Russia to try to talk an English educated Russian missile expert into returning to England.

"Least of These" by Jens Bjorneboe. The story of Jonas, an innocent victim of the post-war educational system in Norway which attempts to stamp out individual creativity for standards of dull conformity.

"Witch Door" by Elizabeth Ogilvie. A haunting tale about a man who returns to his family along the Maine Coast after an eight year absence. The neighbors welcome him as hero returning from Korean imprisonment but his wife knows differently.

"Johnny Shiloh" by J. A. Rhodes and Dean Jauchius. About a nine year old Ohio boy who ran away to join the Union forces in the Civil War. The story is based on the actual adventures of John Lincoln Klem.

"Love at All Ages" by Angela Thirkell. Another Barsetshire novel inhabited by the wonderful Barsetshire people. No other novelist has created such witty and delightful conversationalists.

"War Lover" by John Hersey. Air Force Lt. Boman tells the story of Capt. Buzzy Marrow, an arrogant sadistic bomber pilot, who tried, unsuccessfully, to steal Boman's girl, and in the end revealed his true cowardice.

"Haunting of Hill House" by Shirley Jackson. How a ghost hunter, two girls, and a young man defy the menace of Hill House, with tragic results.

"Ship That Died of Shame" by Nicholas Monsarrat. A varied short story collection that stresses man's inhumanity towards his fellow man.

6 Men Die As Fire Sweeps Lima Hotel

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Six elderly or middle-aged men were killed in a fire that swept through the upper floor of the two-story Holleran Hotel here Sunday night.

The victims were identified by police as Barney McCloskey, about 50; John Phalen, about 67; Patrick Moran, about 68; Fred McCoy, about 60; Wasi Kierucok, 52, and Thomas O'Day, 89. The hotel catered to railroaders and old-age pensioners.

The remains of two or three of the men were charred badly, while the others apparently were victims of the intense heat and thick smoke that permeated their rooms.

The building, on Lima's south side, is probably 60 or 70 years old, police said. While the upstairs interior where the fire broke out virtually was destroyed, firemen contained the blaze and the frame of the building remained standing. Neighboring establishments were unaffected and the fire did not spread to a dining room, bar and carry-out store in the first floor of the hotel building.

Cause of the blaze is unknown yet.

Reports to the Police Department, Patrolman Clarence Briggs related, were that O'Day, who would have reached age 90 in about a week, became aware the place was afire and ran through the upstairs hall shouting for the others. One unidentified occupant, Briggs said, made his escape out his room window, over a roof and down a tree, but five never got out of their rooms.

O'Day was found at the top of the stairs, where he apparently had collapsed just short of safety. The hotel is operated by Mrs. Mae Milbaugh, whose family run the downstairs businesses. Mrs. Milbaugh reportedly was at her desk in the lobby when someone told her the place was on fire. Distraught, she was unable to recall how to telephone the Fire Department but managed to dial the operator who relayed the information.

No one was hurt, aside from those killed, as most of Lima's firefighting forces battled the flames on a cold, snowy night. Mrs. Milbaugh, however, was left in a temporary state of semishock.

SYNOPSIS: Santa and Oonik have discovered that the reason the Ice King is making life miserable for everyone is that he believes nobody loves him. Santa has a plan to find him a wife but first needs the reindeer he set loose back in Santa Land.

(Chapter Thirteen)
THE SUN DAUGHTER

Santa's eight reindeer did not want freedom. Neither did they want to find food for themselves if it meant leaving Santa Claus.

So, when Santa turned them loose they had merely hidden behind a snow ridge. When he had started out on his journey with Oonik the reindeer had followed, always from a distance, always out of sight.

They were very jealous of Keotuk because he pulled Santa's sled. When the polar bear started pulling the sled the reindeer's hearts were broken. They thought Santa had turned them free to get rid of them. But still they trailed him loyally.

It was true that Oonik had a fine hunter's eye and his father had trained him well. From the very beginning he had seen the reindeer's antlers far behind and sometimes heard the clatter of their hooves.

So now he said to the Ice King, "Do you have some salt?"

THE ICE KING replied, "Certainly. I have taken salt from sea ice and I use it to keep my ice from melting in the summer-time. But this year there has been no melting and I have salt to spare."

Oonik took the salt the Ice King gave him and spread it on the steps of the castle. Then he clapped his hands and waved his coat and shouted.

By and by the reindeer, who were hiding behind a hill, came up, one by one, and gratefully licked the salt from the steps. Then Santa came out and greeted them and embraced them with tears in his eyes.

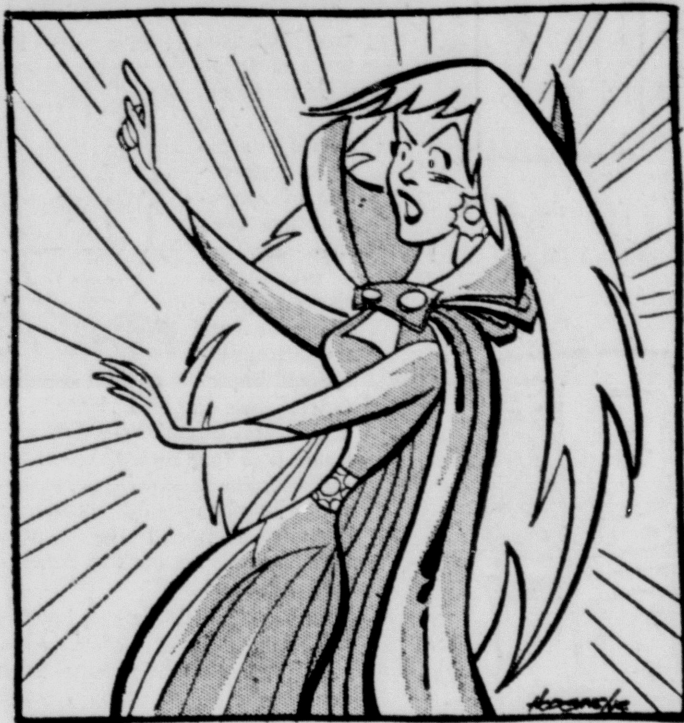

"Now," said Santa to the Ice King, "you must come and woo the Sun Daughter."

The Ice King trembled with eagerness. He took a comb of icicles from his pocket and carefully combed his silken hair.

"Do I look all right?" he asked nervously.

"Irresistible," said Santa.

He harnessed the reindeer to "Get out! Get out!" screamed the shocked Sun Daughter.

the sled and he and Oonik and the Ice King and Keotuk and even the polar bear, who did not want to be left behind, got on the sled. The eight reindeer, overjoyed to be working for Santa again, did not mind the heavy load. They lifted the sled into the sky and away they sped.

IN NO TIME at all they arrived in a land far to the East where the Sun Daughter dwelled.

Now this maiden was the favorite daughter of the Sun. She dwelled in the East so that her father could her face the very first thing in the morning when he came over the horizon at dawn.

Though she was very beautiful she had never married because she was very finicky and hard to please. Still she realized she was getting older very year and she often longed for a husband to spoil her when her father was not around to do it.

So she was overjoyed when Santa Claus suddenly appeared at her bright little cottage and announced he had brought her a suitor.

"Show him in!" she cried eagerly and she rushed to her little bedroom to change into a yellow frock and arrange her lovely yellow hair.

WHEN SHE came back there was the Ice King standing there, overcome with admiration, the icicles trembling from his whiskers and the hoar-frost gleaming in his hair.

"Oh Beautiful One," he murmured tenderly and moved to take her hand.

But the Sun Daughter stepped back in horror. She snatched up a blanket and threw it around her shoulders.

"Get out! Get out!" she screamed. "I can't bear the cold!" And she went in her bedroom and slammed the door.

Furious, the Ice King stalked from the house. "See!" he shouted angrily at Santa Claus. "Everyone hates me. Take me home! I shall go back to my castle and make a winter that will last a thousand years!"

3 OHIOANS ORDAINED
ROME (AP) — Three Ohioans were among 45 students of the Pontifical North American College in Rome who were ordained to the Roman Catholic priesthood Sunday.

Among those ordained at the ceremony in the college's chapel were Charles M. Benedetti, 1268 Lockbourne Rd., Columbus; David F. Sorohan, 318 N. High St., New Lexington, and Francis W. Voellmecke, 3986 Hayward St., Cincinnati.

This And That

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Santa Claus won't fall asleep in his sled on Christmas Eve, and if you're smart you won't nap at the wheel of your car if you have to make a long holiday trip. Drowsing drivers cause 70,000 accidents yearly.

Incidentally, did you know motor vehicles have caused 1,265,000 deaths in this country in this century? That is double the 605,000 killed in all America's wars from the Revolution through the battles in Korea.

If cleanliness is really next to godliness, we're surely getting closer to heaven. A survey showed Americans now take 500 million baths a week.

Do TV fans expect too much? Carol Lawrence, co star of the Broadway musical, "Saratoga," has this to say: "The American public is so sated with talent and with spectacle on television that unless you unscrew your head and throw it at them at the end of your performance they're not happy."

Man bowed to evolution, but the turtle is one animal that pretty much refused to. It hasn't changed greatly in some 200 million years. This sign was observed in a Greenwich Village Beatnik bar: "Reservations taken here for lost weekends"

Fewer than five per cent of the people in civilized lands are left-handed. So, where do all the left-handed compliments come from?

Our quotable notables: "There is no dignity so impressive and independence so important as living within your means," said Calvin Coolidge.

Our favorite gag of the week:

"Christmas is the time of year when families trim trees and fashions."

Nature study note: "A grown lady codfish produces as many as nine million eggs in a single season."

Greeks in this country are noted as restaurant operators. But did you know that about one half of the world's cargo vessels are controlled by Greek owners?

A hit song today is worth $20,000 up, but the odds against your being able to turn one out are at least 10,000 to 1. Yet Sammy Cahn wrote the lyrics to "Bei Mir Bist du Schoen," one of the big all-time hit tunes, in exactly 10 minutes.

Constitution Or Piece Of Paper?

Gov. DiSalle told the educators advisory committee to the Ohio Civil Rights Commission the other day that he would like to see Ohio schools instill in their students a better understanding and appreciation of the Bill of Rights of the U.S. Constitution.

This is one of the major political problems of our nation, but it is not a new one. It has existed ever since Alexander Hamilton, James Madison and John Hay saw the need for the Federalist Papers.

Any democratic form of government depends for its success upon an informed and interested electorate. One of the basic threats to the American Constitution has always been the electorate's misunderstanding of it, or downright indifference to it.

THE TROUBLE IS that most citizens who misunderstand it or are indifferent to it do not realize this is the case. They pay lip service to a fine piece of writing or an impressive title without recognizing that lip service is not the same as understanding and appreciating.

Schools have helped to perpetuate the situation by praising the historical significance of the Constitution and requiring extended memorization of it without getting down to the meat of the thing — revealing what the memorized words mean and why they are significant.

A dramatic demonstration of this occurred a few years ago when students at two large Midwest universities were quizzed on whether they supported the doctrines set forth in the Bill of Rights. The questions were loaded: They did not use "Bill of Rights" or the phraseology of the 10 amendments. They were presented as hypothetical questions.

The result was rejection by the college students of the principles considered to be the cornerstone of our individual freedoms. This did not prove the students are opposed to free government. It proved they do not understand what free government is.

By the same token, as Gov. DiSalle pointed out, Americans are usually so busy talking about their rights and privileges that they ignore another of the necessary tenets of successful democracy: responsibility. Freedom without responsibility is anarchy.

THE DISGRACEFUL lack of interest in going to the polls on election days attests to the general ignorance of this fact among Americans. It should not be necessary for boards of election to stage expensive and time-consuming drives to "get out the vote."

If citizens accepted their constitutional responsibilities as readily as they prate about their constitutional freedoms, the election officials could devote all their time to figuring out how to handle the overflow crowds at voting booths.

The problem reaches back to the first days of our republic. It is doubtful that the goal of a completely informed and interested electorate will ever be achieved. But the effort must always be made.

If it is not, our Constitution is worth no more than the paper it is written on.

"An' I Thought I Was Going to Be So Comfortable"

Rockefeller's Platform

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the past few weeks New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has taken a stand on a number of issues ranging from labor to farmers to foreign affairs. One some he's been direct, on some fuzzy.

On and off for weeks he's been whisking around the country to figure his chances if he ran against Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the Republican 1960 presidential nomination.

Since Nixon has had years to line up Republicans on his side—and Rockefeller admits the vice president has a big edge—this has been a little like looking for Santa Claus. So he has had to identify himself by taking a stand.

He has had to give Republicans some reasons—beyond a big smile—why they might prefer him to Nixon. Nixon, being in front, has stayed quiet.

In this past week in the Midwest Rockefeller has been banging into Nixon strongholds. But he's kept up a cheerful look. He said he will announce early in January whether he will try to take on Nixon.

Probably the most controversial thing he has said yet—because it ran head-on into President Eisenhower's policy—was his stand on nuclear weapons testing.

The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union have suspended the tests while they try to work out some fool-proof agreement to end them altogether, Rockefeller said he would resume the tests.

His reason: To keep the United States from falling "behind in the advanced techniques of nuclear materials."

Here are other positions he has taken.

Labor: He suggests labor forego further reductions in the work week as a help to the country's economic growth; the President should have legal power to compel compulsory arbitration when a long strike threatens the country's welfare.

But—he said he doesn't think compulsory arbitration should apply to all strikes. He made it plain he was talking only about extreme cases.

On the Supreme Court's ban on public school segregation:

He said: "I regard it as necessary and historic affirmation and clarification of the essential liberties and the abiding principles by which America must live."

This was a more direct stand than Eisenhower has so far taken on the decision which was handed down May 7, 1954.

Federal aid to education: He's for such aid—for school construction and scholarships—"where there is proven need."

Birth control: He said: "If the people of a country requesting technical assistance from the United States in an area where it had knowledge (as in birth control) it would seem to me that the United States would want to cooperate with them if it was in the interest of the other country."

Health insurance: He favored a system of health insurance which would preserve the private kind but supplement it with government action where needed.

Non-Communist affidavit: He called for repeal of the non-Communist affidavit required of college students seeking loans under the National Defense Education Act but he said he thought they should be willing to take the loyalty oath required by law.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson: He doesn't agree with suggestions by some Republicans that Benson should quit. He said "we are not going to solve problems by seeking scapegoats."

Farm program: He outlined a 4-point one, based primarily on long-term rentals on farms by the federal government. This was a pretty sketchy proposal. But he said the present price support systems don't meet the needs of the farm problem.

Foreign affairs: He outlined a 7-point program. This was extremely vague, except for saying the United States should retain maximum military power.

Oil depletion: In response to a question he said he was favorably disposed toward the oil depletion tax allowance because it has a stimulating effect on industry.

Censorship In Air

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Control of Radio-TV Proposed Again

Television and the press have been performing an extraordinary service in bringing so quickly to the American people the pictures of President Eisenhower's trip abroad. No other generation of Americans has been able to get so promptly a visual presentation of events of such international importance. This is due largely, of course, to invention—the electronic tape that records voices and pictures, the cable lines that now transmit photographs almost instantaneously, and the airplane that brings films back to America in a few hours.

There is something else involved—the alertness of private enterprise. The competition in the press and among broadcasting companies—television as well as radio—inspired the news managers who did the planning weeks ahead of time.

Yet today there is talk of government control of the medium of expression. There are champions of government ownership of a radio network and advocates of government dictation on how programs on public affairs, educational subjects and everything else, including the most highly controversial questions, shall be handled by TV and radio.

The concept is advanced that the government owns the air waves and hence should control what goes out over them.

It's the same old argument that, because the government owns the waters and its dams, it must own electric power plants or, that because the government can commandeer the natural resources of the nation, it should go into the oil business or the coal business just as the Communist governments do.

Does the government of the United States own all the air, or is this something reserved to the people? Originally, when radio came into being, it was discovered that there would be a collision of broadcasts on the air waves unless, the available channels were allotted.

The government's role was that of a traffic cop. It set out to regulate the transmission of broadcasts through the issuance of licenses and the allocation of channels. Nobody thought at the time that this covered the prerogatives of ownership. Certainly the traffic departments of the states and cities do not have to own all the autos and trucks whose movements they regulate in order to avoid collisions and other accidents.

Unfortunately, the Supreme Court of the United States swallowed the so-called "liberal" doctrine—which in reality, if followed to its logical conclusion, often becomes totalitarian—and began issuing rulings that indicated wider and wider governmental powers over radio stations.

Instead of constraining the language of the federal law as meant ing control over mechanical conflicts in the air, the executive agencies concerned were told to regulate radio licenses on a broader basis.

The clause in the law covering "public interest, convenience and necessity" was interpreted to mean that the federal government has the power to go into program quality, qualifications of owners and sundry other questions that are never raised when government contracts are let in other fields.

RECENT AGITATION over quiz shows and scandals now seems to have opened the way for the government ownership school to call for the exercise of more federal authority.

There are suggestions, for instance, that the government should go into the field of education by setting up broadcasting stations with government money.

Some of the pressure groups which have been trying to get more and more federal funds for schools claim to be opposed to federal control of the educational systems of the country but nevertheless are lined up in favor of the extension of federal governmental authority to carry on various "educational" programs over TV and radio.

There is already law enough to punish fraud and to stop misrepresentation or misleading advertising. If the end result of the recent TV scandals is to take away from private enterprise the initiative stimulated by American competition, then the cure will prove much worse than the disease.

The political consequences of such a debacle and its effect on the American system of government could be grave.

If any administration in Washington really controlled the air waves and could dictate what was done with them, the word "educational" could easily acquire the connotation given by a jury verdict recently with respect to political broadcasts paid for out of union dues.

Despite the provision in the Taft-Hartley Act that a union may not use its general funds for political contributions, the union was upheld in its contention that its partisan telecasts, heard by the public, during the 1954 election campaigns in Michigan were merely a means of "educating" its members.

CONGRESS has already interfered with the right of radio and television, as mediums of expression, to use their own news judgment as protected by the First Amendment to the Constitution. Thus, laws have been passed ordering that "equal time" be afforded to all candidates for a public office, irrespective of whether there is news or interest among listeners in the boring words of some of the candidates.

There is no surer way of ruining any medium of communication than to give the government any power to tell a private enterprise how to deal with political speech or any other program. Censorship of the theater or of books is resented by many so-called "liberals," but somehow there is a strange readiness to accept censorship of TV and radio.

Santa Down Under

By ARTHUR SCHOLLES

SYDNEY In this country, which has a higher percentage of trade unionists than any other Western country, even Santa Claus is expected to join the union.

The Miscellaneous Workers Union announced here at the beginning of the month that it was launching a drive to enroll the city's 250 Santas in the union.

Union officials also announced that they had considerable difficulty in finding suitable applicants when a chain store had asked them to supply labor.

THE UNION ORGANIZER, Jack Dwyer, himself an ex-Santa, said: "Applicants must be grandfatherly types with a love of children. They must be nonsmokers and non-drinkers on the job."

The union was promptly swamped with phone calls and callers with grandfatherly voices and appearance anxious to fill the jobs.

Purely Personal

By TRUMAN TWILL

I suspect it is impossible for sports personalities to feel sweet about the fans who pay their wages, then cut their throats when their popularity wanes. For example, no football enterprise has done more for professional football than the Cleveland Browns, but the instant the Browns slip the fans cannot say anything bad enough about them.

Has it occurred to others, too, that following the excessive blurring of Jayne Mansfield there has been a blessed interval of silence about show business personalities noted for the same type of endowments?

I look forward to national elections with no pleasure, because what some choose to think of as a game seems to me to turn into a bear-baiting contest before it's over—and this isn't the way I think the country should pick its leadership.

People are always threatening to tape-record the sound effects of a cocktail party, but I have heard of only one instance in which it was done. The results were wonderful. A couple of females were cutting up all present within range of the recorder.

The next time they redo the telephone, I want to point out the obvious advantages of getting rid of the handpiece. Newspaper offices, for example, no longer would be peopled by contortionists holding receivers precariously between the ear and the hunched shoulder while typing.

I find it useful and provocative to point out in arguments about whether something should be decided one way or another that circumstances already have decided the point and what it being decided currently is whether to accept the decision or pretend there is still an issue.

My hunch is that for every book exploited into the big-yield bracket another book equally good is passed over. "This Side of Sanity," by Janet Henry, with illustrations by James O'Connell Morgan, has been convulsing our household. You get the idea from the subtitle: "A Part-Time Handbook for Full-Time Mothers." Cope Inc., Cleveland 15, O., published the book, in which I have no interest, except the fact its author is the young daughter-in-law of an old friend of mine and a very witty gal.

Nothing seems sillier than theories about solving transportation problems by getting people out of their cars and into public transportation. Only in dictatorships can people be deprived of what they have chosen of their own free will.

It's cruel to say, but without the income from his books, written while fighting for his life in California's San Quentin prison, Caryl Chessman would have been executed years ago. Justice is blind but remarkably responsive to the leverage of money.

If anyone asked me, I'd say the politicians know a good thing when they stumble over it and are going to keep a morality show going as long as they can because it distracts attention from their own lack of scruples.

When we get this far into the bad-weather season with no bad weather, it becomes possible to believe we are over the hump and anything that happens from now on will be of minor consequence.

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

The 'Supreme' Law Of The Land

Brows are wrinkled in Chicago over the violent death of Roger Touhy, holdover gangster from the prohibition era, recently released from state prison after doing nearly a quarter of a century of time for kidnapping one of his gangland era acquaintances.

There is a wrinkle inside the wrinkling. Everybody wonders who shot Touhy to death with shotguns and critically wounded his bodyguard, a former Chicago policeman. But no one honestly wonders why it happened, because the explanation is part of the folklore of the era.

The "supreme" law of the land in situations that involve America's gangs is not what Cook County, Ill., the state of Illinois, or the United States proclaim. It is what the gang chiefs decree, and it is evident they decreed the sudden and violent death of Touhy, who had committed gangland's worst offense.

He had broken gangland's code of silence. He not only had talked freely with his mouth but had blabbed through a ghost writer. He had revealed secrets no police department and no public investigation could wring out of any gangland associate who took his responsibilities seriously.

While plans for Touhy's assassination were being put into effect, the United States was hearing the defense summary in the mass conspiracy trial of the so-called Apalachin defendants in New York City—the men who showed up as guests of the late Joseph Barbara on Nov. 14, 1957.

Their lawyers all said the same thing in effect. The grand jury hearing the case, the prosecutors, the courts, the government had no right to try to get information that might have bearing on the charge of criminal conspiracy against their clients. They would never talk.

If any reminder were needed that silence is the Golden Rule of people who understand how to protect one another against charges of wrongdoing, the Touhy murder provided it. His execution was ordered by the court that outranks every court in the United States because its decisions are final and fatal.

SALEM'S LEADING JEWELERS - AND DIAMOND MERCHANTS!

The Social Notebook

FIFTEEN MEMBERS of the Goshen Harmony Club enjoyed a Christmas dinner party and gift exchange Thursday evening at Aldom's Restaurant in Alliance.

The next meeting is Jan. 28 at the home of Mrs. Edward Weingart of RD 4, Salem.

SCHWARTZ STORE employees were recently entertained at a Christmas dinner party in the Timberlanes. Mrs. G. K. Schwartz and Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Schwartz were hosts. Mrs. Arthur Schuster was a special guest.

Christmas candles in crystal holders were favors marking the 25 place settings.

The group sang carols and played canasta. The game prize was awarded to Mrs. Gladys Herman.

THE ESTHER BUTLER Missionary Circle of the First Friends Church met Thursday at the church with 12 members present.

Mrs. Walter Shallenberg gave the devotion, using a Christmas story and prayer.

Members voted to send the Wilda Winn Circle a card of thanks for entertaining the group recently.

A memorial will be written for Mrs. Harry Gardner, a member, who died recently in Florida.

Gifts of cookies and candy were sent to shut-ins by the group.

For the program, the group sang "Silent Night," and each member told a story or recited a poem. Mrs. Harry Haviland offered the closing prayer.

THE LEETONIA Coterie Club was entertained recently at the home of Mrs. T. L. Sauerwein of the Teegarden Road. A Christmas coverdish dinner highlighted the evening.

The dining table was laid with a Christmas cloth and entered with a miniature Christmas tree and red tapers. Favors were glittered shells.

A secret pal gift exchange was enjoyed, with new pals being selected for the coming year.

Mrs. Sauerwein presented a gift to each guest.

SECRET PALs were selected when the Forty-Niners met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. William Reynolds of RD 1, Canfield.

Gifts were exchanged and calendars were distributed by Mrs. John McCabe. Lunch was served by Mrs. McCabe and Mrs. Reynolds.

Mrs. Clarence Votaw of RD 5, Salem invited the group to her home for the Jan. 25 meeting.

THE HAPPY NINE Club members entertained their husbands at a Christmas party recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mercer of Damascus.

Secret sisters were revealed when gifts were exchanged.

Refreshments were served by the hosts.

The next meeting is Feb. 16 at the Columbiana home of Mrs. Glenn White.

MRS. GILBERT EVERHART of S. Madison St. was hostess to Club 500 Thursday evening.

Honors in "500" went to Mrs. Aubrey Hayes, Mrs. Hazel Tilley, Mrs. George Stankovich and Mrs. Robert Pasco, who also won the special prize.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. John Richard Ehrhart, Mrs. John Krebs and Mrs. Pasco in honor of their birthday anniversary.

Christmas gifts were exchanged. Mrs. Robert Lopeman of 1894 Monroe St. will entertain the club Jan. 21.

Baptist Youth Group Will Present Play

A Christmas play, "The Cradle," will be presented by the Baptist Youth Fellowship Wednesday evening at 8 in Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church.

The public is invited to attend the production which tells the story of Eben Ben Judah, a wealthy Bethlehemite, and a cradle he is mistakenly given. Possession of the cradle turns him into an evil person until the Messiah is born in his stable, and the mistake discovered.

The cast consists of Meredith Livingston Jr., Ben Judah; Mrs. Herbert Nannah, Shelah, his wife; Miss Priscilla Ivan, Risah, Shelah's sister; George Johnston, Timaeus, stable boy.

Miss Kay McDonald, Leah, grandmother; Jimmie Joe Miller, Kish, grandson; Miss Judy Durham, Karen, the granddaughter.

Vocal solo selections will include "O Holy High," and "There's A Song in the Air," Mrs. Nannah; "Jesu Bambino," Mr. Livingston; and "The Lord's Prayer," Miss Culley Livingston.

The Baptist Chorale will sing "Behold Ye Bethlehem," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Committee members include Eric Nyberg, makeup; Harry Lotman, director; Miss Sharon Falls, assistant director and costumer; Miss Ruth Ivan, bookholder and stage properties; and James Ivan, scenery.

SUE HILL GRADUATES

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest C. Hill of 407 S. Madison Ave attended graduation exercises Friday at Ohio State University, where their daughter, Sue, received a bachelor of science in education degree. Miss Hill majored in French.

TO SERVE SECOND TERMS — Newly-installed officers of the Salem Garden Club will serve their club for the second consecutive term. Discussing program plans for the coming year are (l. to r.) Mrs. F. W. Hone, treasurer; Mrs. R. R. Cuthbert, first vice president; Mrs. R. K. Zimmerman, president; Mrs. L. P. Koenreich, program chairman; and Mrs. V. J. Bober, secretary. Mrs. E. S. Huffman, second vice president, was absent when photograph was taken.

Salem Garden Club Seats Officers At Holiday Party

Salem Garden Club installed officers at a recent meeting in the Ruth Smucker House. Mrs. Powell Schmauch installed the officers, all serving second terms.

They are: President, Mrs. R. K. Zimmerman; first vice president, Mrs. R. R. Cuthbert; second vice president, Mrs. E. S. Huffman; treasurer, Mrs. F. W. Hone; and secretary, Mrs. V. J. Bober.

Mrs. Schmauch made a word flower arrangement likening the importance of the club, its officers and board of gardeners, and all active members to the importance of the container, needle and entry chairman, announced a three-way tie for the green ribbon award given for the most entries during the year in the arrangements class. Mrs. Frank Skowron, Mrs. Caplan and Mrs. V. R. Horning, who each had the same number of entries, drew straws to determine the winner and Mrs. Skowron received the award, an antique brass container. An identical container went to Mrs. W. D. King, who received the most green ribbons for entries in the horticulture class.

Mrs. Caplan, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Raymond Sturgeon and Mrs. Leonard Baker Jr., both of Youngstown, who showed many different gift wrappings and how to use them in attractive ways. Each member received a booklet titled, "Gift Wrapping Magic."

Gift wrapped packages brought by the members for the Red Cross were judged and ribbons in two classes were awarded. Ribbons for the most unusual wrappings went to Mrs. Earl Johnson, blue; Mrs. Zimmerman, red; Mrs. John Botu, yellow; Mrs. William Reardon, white. Ribbon awards for the prettiest packages went to Mrs. George Jones, blue; Mrs. N. I. Walken, red; Mrs. Skowron, yellow; and Mrs. Schmauch, white.

Mrs. Esther Odoran presented a musical program featuring Karen Gosney, who sang, "Alice Blue Gown"; Renelle Lewis, "Swiss Hill Billy"; and Donna Galchick, "Shadows." "It's a Most Unusual Day," and "It's a Hap Happy Day."

Dessert was served from a table decorated with a tall red candle in an arrangement of holly. Mrs. Zimmerman and Mrs. W. P. Blair presided at the silver service.

The committee included Mrs. A. J. Winchester, chairman; Mrs. Walken, Mrs. Roy West and Mrs. Wayne Whiteleather.

A coverdish luncheon is planned for the Jan. 25 meeting at 12:30 p.m. in the Smucker House. Green ribbons will be awarded for arrangements to be used on the tables. Mrs. R. E. Bartholomew will present the program, "Gardens Across the Sea."

Camille Jones' Cover Design Is Exhibited

A former Salem girl, Miss Camille Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Jones of 251 E. 8th St., was recently honored for artistic ability when a cover of "Presbyterian Action," which she designed, was selected for showing in a Virginia commercial art display. More than 800 entries were submitted.

Miss Jones, editorial assistant for the magazine, was graduated from Salem High School in 1943.

In the Service

James Burt Phillips, son of George Burt Phillips of RD 3, Salem, enlisted in the Navy Dec. 8 and is in training at the Great Lakes Naval Center.

A graduate of United High School, he entered the Navy as a high school seaman recruit for a three-year enlistment.

GRADUATES AT OSU

Donald J. Lippiatt, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Lippiatt and the late Joseph Lippiatt of 849 E. 6th St., was graduated from Ohio State University Friday with a Bachelor of Mechanical Engineering degree.

Attending the commencement exercises in Columbus were Mrs. Lippiatt; Donald's grandmother, Mrs. J. R. Lippiatt of Salem; a sister, Jayne of Salem; and Miss Ann Stein of Chicago. Donald is a 1950 graduate of Salem High School.

Xi Gamma, Beta Psi Chapters Enjoy Joint Holiday Party

Xi Gamma Beta and Beta Psi Chapters of Beta Sigma Phi sorority held a joint Christmas party Thursday evening in the Ruth Smucker House. Children of the members presented the entertainment.

Mrs. Sherman Myers and Mrs. Fat Sutheran, presidents of the chapters, welcomed the 40 members, 47 children and two guests. Mrs. Carl McConner, sponsor for Beta Psi Chapter, and Mrs. Vesta King, honorary member of Xi Gamma chapter.

The story, "The Littlest Angel," was presented by Mrs. Harold Whitcomb and the program by the children included: Piano solo, "Lo-How a rose," Cheryl Hundertmark;

Travelers Enjoy Holiday Program; Hear Rev. Whitney

The Rev. T. G. S. Whitney, rector of the Church of Our Saviour, was guest speaker at the Travelers Club Christmas program Tuesday afternoon at the Smucker House.

The program opened with two vocal selections, "O Holy Night" and "Sweet Little Jesus Boy" by Mrs. William Snowball, accompanied by Mrs. Kenneth Bowser.

Rev. Whitney discussed the connection between the great painter, sculptor and prophet, Michelangelo, and his work at the Sistine Chapel in Rome and the Christmas story. He described a critical century with its good and bad which he said sounded surprisingly like our own 20th century, but really was the 15th century, the time of Michelangelo.

Michaelangelo portrayed man as he saw him, completely helpless without God, but full of power and potential. In The Creation, he showed that God is one of power and creation, while he is one of wrath and judgment in The Last Judgment.

The only place where Michelangelo was short-sighted was that he missed the quality of the Christ Child and how it can be expressed in man by his deed, Mr. Whitney pointed out.

Christmas ornaments and candles decorated the tea table. The committee consisted of Mrs. Walter Deming, chairman, Mrs. Orvil Hoover, Mrs. Fred Isreal, Mrs. Thomas Mercer, Mrs. Burt Leeper, Mrs. Louis Mulbach and Mrs. Roland Webber.

The next meeting is Jan. 5.

James R. Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Fisher of 1069 E. State St., has been named to the University of Cincinnati chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma, national scholastic honor society for commerce and industry. The Salem man, a junior at UC, is a 1956 graduate of Salem High School.

Farmers Bank Staff Enjoys Holiday Party

Directors, officers and employees of the Farmers National Bank gathered at the Salem Golf Club for their annual Christmas dinner party Thursday evening.

E. M. Stephenson, bank president, was host of the affair which numbered 140 guests. Mr. Stephenson spoke briefly on operations for the past year and the prospects for next year and then distributed Christmas bonuses.

The remainder of the program consisted of a tape recording of a recent radio talk given by Mr. Stephenson on the future of Salem. A gift from the employees was presented to him.

E. M. Jenkins, senior director of the bank, acted as toastmaster.

THE FABULOUS NEW SCHWARTZ'S

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My daughter-in-law asked me to take her 4-year-old son for the day as she had to work a full day with a church group. I was happy to say yes.

About 6:30 after I had fed him supper I phoned Florence and asked when she wanted me to bring the child back. She replied, "When he's 16."

I know she meant it as a joke but I was distressed to think that a mother would say such a thing, even in jest.

Why is it that the modern mother looks upon rearing children as such a task? When I brought up my three I enjoyed every single minute of it. What's wrong with today's mother?—OLD FASHIONED.

Dear Old-Fashioned: Your memory is a little dusty, Dear. Nobody can bring up three normal children and "love every single minute of it."

The modern mother has many more demands on her time than her mother had. She's expected to participate in community affairs, politics, PTA, her husband's favorite sport, Cub Scouts, Brownies, local charities and church groups.

The average mother is wearing three hats—short-order cook, chauffeur and night nurse. Don't criticize your daughter-in-law for this small joke. If a mother can keep her sense of humor these days, she has the battle half won.

Dear Ann: My husband and I and our two daughters moved out here 12 years ago. We are 1,000 miles from my family. Once a year my mother and dad come to visit us. They stay for a week, bring canned goods, smoked meats and everything they can pack into the car.

When they leave my husband becomes insulting, says they are a pain in the neck, complains that they eat too much and that I wait on them hand and foot.

His folks never come to visit although we've invited them many times. They are a cold bunch and there never was any affection or closeness in his family.

My family just left and for nths I'll have to listen to my husband criticize them. What shall I say to him?—TAMPA MRS.

Dear Tampa: Save your pipes. Nothing you could say would make any difference. Develop an elephant hide and a tin ear.

The best thing you can do is this: When he starts in, say to yourself, "This poor, insensitive character has never had a decent relationship with his own family therefore he must attack me and my family when we show one another love and respect." Put this column in your top drawer and read these words whenever you need the help.

The Baited Trap

Dear Ann: The other morning I picked up the phone and a clear, feminine voice said, "What are you going to do about the romance between your husband and?"

My husband has an ordinary job in an ordinary office. The woman named is a widow who works there also. I never suspected my husband of cheating. He seldom goes anywhere without me and I've no reason to be unsure of him.

Common sense tells me to put this out of my mind but I can't. Can you help me?—SHAKEN.

Dear Shaken: This anonymous phone call is a vicious attempt to upset you. Don't fall into the trap.

Dear Ann Landers: I quit high school when I was 16 because I got a chance to take a job which seemed like a lot of fun and good money. The job lasted two weeks.

Over a year has passed and I haven't been able to get another job. I've left my name in over 35 places but no one has called me. There must be some type of employment (other than housework for a girl without a high school diploma. In an interview when I say I didn't finish high school they all reply, "That's too bad.")

I must have a job because my father is dead and my mother is not in good health and can't work much longer. Please tell me what to do. I am desperate.—JINY.

Dear Jiny: Go back to school and get a diploma. You could sit around another year or two without employment.

Your earning capacity will be greater and you'll do far better in the long run if you can tell a prospective employer you've finished high school. Then you'll also be qualified to take night school college courses which will put you even further ahead.

These are competitive times and a gal with a limited education can't get her nose in the tent.

Love's Embers

Dear Ann: Can a married man keep in constant touch with a former sweetheart and be strictly on the level with his wife? He says yes. I'm asking for your opinion.

These are the facts: The woman has had two unsuccessful marriages. He says she's a swell kid who had a rough time through no fault of her own.

She phones him any hour of the day or night and he gets in his car and goes over to "talk to her."

Her 11-year-old son calls him "Uncle Jim" and doesn't know he's married. He says, "It's better if the boy thinks I'm just a bachelor friend."

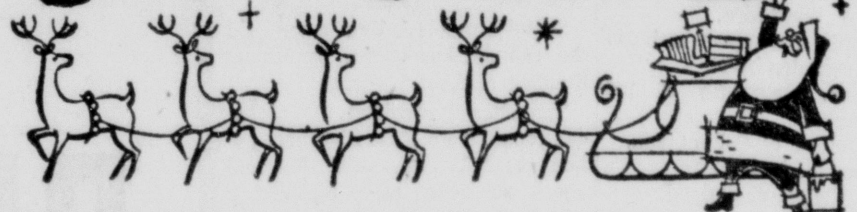

I've gone along with his being a good pal to this woman for four years. Now I think it's time she got herself a single pal to cry on. What do you say?—UNHAPPY.

Dear Unhappy: I second the motion. "Uncle Jim" should keep both shoulders at home. The bachelor role, for Junior's sake, puts a very unsavory flavor on the whole thing. Tell Pal Jim you're not buying his line any more and to cut out the counseling.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The accident occurred on Rt. 7, about a half mile south of the Mahoning County line, at 1:20 p.m. patrolmen said. Mrs. Ames, patrolmen said, stopped for a stop sign and then pulled out in front of the other woman.

squarely on these recent settlements and that with the Kaiser Steel Co."

The aluminum pact, according to the union's figures, provides a 30-cent increase in wages and fringe benefits over the three-year period. Some of the aluminum companies figured the cost as slightly less.

Most of the added cost of McDonald's latest demand is a full cost of living increase under terms of the old contract. This would give steelworkers 3 to 4 cents more an hour starting in January. The Kaiser contract called for a 2-cent increase of this type with no further adjustment until July.

The 500,000 steelworkers struck for 116 days until they were forced back to work Nov. 7 by a government Taft - Hartley injunction. After the injunction expires Jan. 26, they are free to strike again. Wages under the old contracts, which are in force during the injunction, averaged $3.11 an hour last June. The average varies slightly from month to month.

Madrid

flourished noise-makers. Streets were full despite a cold rain.

For days the President's auto route into Madrid from the U.S. air base at Torrejon has been undergoing lavish decoration with flags, portraits and triumphal arches.

Among the thousands of banners there were two of Spain's red and yellow flags for every Stars and Stripes.

In portraits, honors were about equally divided between Franco and his guest. But the President probably took an edge with a picture four stories high in the Plaza de Espana, one of the city's main squares.

For Franco, the visit is among the climaxes is an eventual career. Once Europe's youngest general, he became a leading political figure at 43 when plane accidents removed his two superiors in the 1936 uprising against the Spanish republic.

To Franco, the uprising and the Civil War that followed have always been a part of a crusade against communism.

Partisans of Franco have taken the Eisenhower visit as an American endorsement of his government and his stand against communism over the past quarter of a century.

clear to the Soviets that any "observers" at the summit—a role played by East and West Germany in the Geneva foreign ministers conference this year—would be "inappropriate."

This conformed to the wishes of Adenauer.

The Eisenhower note to Khrushchev made plain the President wants a wide-open summit meeting where discussions can range far.

President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle wound up their talks by charting the steps to be taken to the summit that Khrushchev has long been clamoring for.

Adenauer Also Attended

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer also attended the weekend Western summit meeting although he will not be at the conference table with Khrushchev.

Here are the salient points from the weekend session.

1. To quiet West German fears the Big Three gave Adenauer assurances that the Allies are determined to hold on to their war occupation rights in West Berlin.

2. They agreed to press for the opening of disarmament talks by the 10-nation East-West commission before the proposed summit conference—a move that could serve as a test of Soviet intentions. Late March was talked of as a likely starting time. Originally the commission had been expected to meet in February, in Geneva, but a new Western disarmament proposal will probably not be ready then.

3. De Gaulle accepted an invitation to visit the United States in April only days in advance of the contemplated Paris summit meeting. By then, the French President will himself have been host to Khrushchev and formed a personal opinion of the Soviet leader.

4. Eisenhower suggested the possibility of a series of summit talks with the Soviets. The White House Press Secretary, James C. Hagerty, told newsmen, "The President feels it would be very difficult to solve all problems at one summit conference."

5. Eisenhower failed to persuade De Gaulle to abandon his opposition to giving the NATO military command control of French forces assigned to the defense of Western Europe. But Eisenhower reportedly convinced the Frenchman that, although the United States abstained in the U.N. vote on the Algerian issue, Washington still endorses De Gaulle's proposal for a self-determination referendum in Algeria after peace is restored.

6. The Western Big Four moved toward setting up a sort of Atlantic economic council aimed at averting a trade war among the Allies in Europe. It would seek to coordinate European and North American trade bodies and reconcile West Europe's rival economic groupings, the six-nation common market and the "outer seven" free traders led by Britain.

Khrushchev's invitation to the summit conference went to the big three ambassadors in Moscow for delivery to the Kremlin today. An informant said they left the door open for the Soviet Premier to suggest an alternate meeting site or date.

Eisenhower was clearly enthusiastic about the outcome of his meetings here with De Gaulle, Macmillan and Adenauer, a major event in his 22,000-mile goodwill mission now drawing to a close. The President leaves this afternoon for Madrid and an 18-hour visit there.

The four Allied leaders met most of Sunday at the French presidential chateau outside the picturesque village of Rambouillet, 30 miles from Paris.

Gifts Deluge Desperate War Bride

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Hope mingled with tears of appreciation today in the eyes of Marie Mackey because a policeman was touched by her plight. Policeman R. I. Haddix went to the Korean war bride's apartment Sunday after alarmed neighbors reported the incessant crying of children.

"It was terrible," said Haddix. He found the tiny mother cuddling two whimpering little girls, Beverly, 2½ and Judy, 1½. The babies were only underwear. Marie's husband had been gone four days.

"They hadn't eaten for two days," said Haddix. "She was just resigned to die with her girls."

So Haddix went to a grocer. He had $3.82. The grocer matched it. A customer pitched in. And Haddix left with $10 worth of food.

Police radios buzzed. A captain told his men to give money for his usual present to Marie Mackey and her girls. A cop brought a Christmas tree. Patrolmen took up money in local barrooms.

Radio stations took up the cry. And Marie Mackey watched the parade of gifts come into the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Somers who gave her refuge. Then Sunday night carolers from the First Congregational Church sang of Christmas.

A tear rolled down the cheek of Marie Mackey who had found warm friends far from her native land.

Children Are Feted In East Palestine District

EAST PALESTINE — The First National Bank's Christmas party for the children will be held on Tuesday evening at 7 at the bank. Over 900 children attended a community Christmas party Saturday at the high school, sponsored by six fraternal and patriotic groups.

The Negley Fire Department entertained 200 children at a party Saturday. On Sunday, 350 children of the New Waterford area were guests of the New Waterford Fire Department at a party at the fire station.

Peter Townsend Weds Young Belgian Girl

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Princess Margaret's onetime suitor, Peter Townsend, was married in Brussels today to Marie-Luce Jamagne, 20, daughter of an Antwerp tobacco tycoon, a friend of Townsend reported.

The friend said the ceremony was performed at noon.

The engagement of Townsend, 44, and Marie-Luce, his secretary, was announced by her mother Oct. 9.

Townsend's romance with Princess Margaret broke up four years ago. He had been divorced. The Church of England forbids marriage of a divorced person so long as the other party to the divorce is living. The former Mrs. Townsend is living and Princess Margaret bowed to the rule.

Rev. Massey to Leave East Palestine Church

EAST PALESTINE — The Rev. Herbert E. Massey, pastor of the Coventry Methodist Church here, has accepted a call to the Fairborn Methodist Church near Dayton.

Announcement was made at the close of the Sunday worship service.

Pastor of the local church for the past five and a half years, he will begin his new pastorate in mid-January.

ing and Machine Co., and Richard Coe, vice president of the Electric Furnace Co., decided they would try to help get his family from behind the Iron Curtain.

They started their efforts in 1957. Until last week, what followed was two years of "red tape" and disappointments.

Working closely with Ohio Senator John Bricker and later with Congressman Frank Bow of Canton, the Salem men succeeded in getting Mrs. Alzner and Anna out of Romania into West Germany in July of this year. Papers were then obtained to permit the wife and daughter to come to the United States.

"The red tape and the reluctance of the Romanian government to let them go made the task seem like an impossibility," Mr. Smith commented. "We experienced one heartbreak after another."

Smith said that Alzner was tempted many times to return to Romania but that if he had gone back, he probably never would have gotten out of the country again.

Another Daughter in Romania

Alzner still has a daughter, son-in-law and two grandchildren in Romania. Smith says there is not much chance of getting them out from behind the iron curtain at least until Alzner is here long enough to become a U.S. citizen.

The Alzners have set up housekeeping on S. Broadway across from City Hall.

Neither Mrs. Alzner nor Anna can speak English. Martin has picked up the language well in the three years he has been in this country but German words still pop up frequently in his conversation.

The Alzners hope to get help learning the language from a new television set and many friendly neighbors. Many German families in town are coming to greet them at Christmas time.

The Story of the Carols

Angels' Voices Swell Through the Centuries

EDITORS NOTE: The Gloria chorus sung by the angels the first Christmas has inspired men of many nations to herald the birth of Christ in song. Handel was bankrupt and ill when he heard the angelic chorus, and was so moved that he wrote his great "Messiah." Charles Wesley, hearing the chorus in ringing church bells, wrote "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." This is the first of three articles on the origin of our Christmas carols.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
Associated Press Newsfeatures
Writer

"And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of heavenly hosts, praising God and saying: Glory to God in the highest and on earth, peace, good will to men."

LUKE II, 13-14.
On the plains above Bethlehem the shepherds listened in wonder and delight to the singing of the world's first Christmas carol.

The great Gloria chorus, proclaiming the birth of the Savior, rang out over the frost-jeweled valleys and caught a never ending echo in the ancient Judean hills.

The hills echoed it to the mountains, and the mountains sang it to the stars. Out across the chasm of centuries it carried, a strain of unsurpassed beauty that time could not still. It whispered urgently in the ears of composers. It burst forth from the hearts of poets. Men of all ages and climes heard it in infinite variations.

Handel's "Messiah"
George Frederick Handel, a poor barber's son who wanted all his life to write great music, heard it in the loneliness of his London flat in the year 1741.

"I did think I did see all Heaven before me, and the Great God Himself," he described his moment of sublime inspiration. Bankrupt, broken in health and spirit, he locked himself indoors with his dream for 22 days, seldom eating or sleeping, and emerged with his greatest oratorio, "The Messiah," clutched in his paralyzed left hand.

Wesley's Inspiration
Charles Wesley, the poet laureate of Methodism, heard it on his way to church on Christmas morning, 1739. The joyful clanging of the bells seemed to him like silver tongues of angels singing a welcome to the Christ child. His "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," written almost on the spot, remains to this day one of the most popular of all Christmas hymns.

Birth of "Silent Night"
The Rev. Joseph Mohr heard it one Christmas Eve in the Austrian Tyrol while returning from a sick call. He was a newly ordained priest assigned to St. Nicholas Church, Oberndorf, a parish so poor that the church nice could find nothing better to eat than the bellows of the organ. Their choice of fare saddened the young priest, because it meant there would be no Christmas music.

Pausing to rest on his way down a mountain, Father Mohr was struck by the beauty of the snow covered peaks, soft blue in the star light but glowing here and there with the torches carried by his parishioners on the way to Midnight Mass.

"Silent night, holy night. All is dark, save the light..." The words rushed to his mind. Hurrying to the home of his friend Franz Gruber, the local schoolmaster and church organist, the priest begged a melody to fit his simple words. In less than an hour, Gruber scored the exquisite poem for guitar and two voices.

"We will die, you and I," Gruber told his wife, "but this song will never die." That Christmas morning in 1818, with Father Mohr playing the Italian guitar and singing tenor to Franz Gruber's rich bass, "Silent Night" first burst forth upon the world.

From the dawn of Christianity, men have borrowed tongues of angels to serenade the new born Savior.

Pope Telephorus in 129 A.D. exhorted his flock to sing together the "Gloria in Excelsis Deo," the Latin translation of the angel song recorded in Luke's Gospel. St. Jerome mentions the use of carols in the Fifth Century.

"Adeste Fidelis," possibly one of the oldest hymns and next to "Silent Night" the most universal, is believed to have been the chant that medieval monks intoned while moving through the darkness of their cloisters to sing the office on Christmas morning. Other authorities, however, attribute it to John Francis Wade, a music copyist who in 1740 lived at Douay, France, with a group of exiled English Catholics.

Still others credit it to St. Bonaventure, an associate of St. Francis of Assisi, the humble friar who introduced the custom of the Christmas crib at Greccio, Italy, in 1223, using live animals for his stable figures. Because the crowds who came to see this striking Nativity scene were asked to join in singing, Francis is often called the father of the modern Christmas carol.

Sailors about the time of Columbus' first voyage to the New World began the morning watch on Christmas Day by singing "I Saw Three Ships Assailing," an unusual carol that pictured Christ and Mary arriving by sea at landlocked Bethlehem.

"Good King Wenceslaus," a carol of Swedish or German origin, chronicles the devout doings of a 10th Century Duke of Bohemia who was known for his generosity on St. Stephen's Day, the day after Christmas.

"God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen," traditionally the first carol heard in London on Christmas mornings, is believed to be of Welsh origin. Mozart borrowed the melody for a duet for violin and piano. Charles Dickens' Ebenezer Scrooge had a different reaction. When the carolers bent down at his keyhole to regale him with this cherished favorite, he grabbed his ruler and drove them off.

Down through the ages men of all walks of life have added their voices to the angel chorus. Carols have been penned by such diverse authors as Sir Walter Raleigh, Mary Queen of Scots, Francis Scott Key, Johannes Brahms (whose immortal "Lullaby" was written as a Christmas hymn), St. Francis Xavier, Martin Luther, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Pope Pius IX and Harpo Marx.

The last mentioned, although a comedian by trade, composed the beautiful music for "Guardian Angels," a carol popularized by the late Mario Lanza and now sung in many churches.

Tomorrow: "Joy To The World."

Salem Heavy Favorite In Game With East Palestine

Bulldogs Have 2-1 Record

Injury To Keep Lehwald on Bench

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

Salem's Quakers will be heavy favorites to make the East Palestine Bulldogs their second straight victim of the season when the two Columbiana County cage squads collide Tuesday in the Salem High School gym.

East Palestine has won two of three games but they don't appear to have the material to cope with Salem's powerhouse this year. The Bulldogs opened with a 51-50 win over Canfield and followed it up with a 54-46 victory over Boardman, a future Salem opponent.

In their last outing, East Palestine dropped a 50-38 contest to an only fair Youngstown Rayen quintet.

WILLIS WOODS, a 5-9 senior, is the only regular returning from last year's squad which dropped a 74-57 decision to the Quakers. There are two other letterwinners on Coach Don Hinten's varsity. They are Charles Robinson, 5-11 senior, and Charles Bruno, 6-4 senior. Bruno is the tallest man on the squad.

Besides the three letter winners, Hinten will probably start Jim Hartshorn, 6-0, and Jerry Bush, 5-11, or Jack Istnick, 5-8. All three are juniors.

Woods, who played quarterback on the football team, is the leading scorer for the Bulldogs. He has 35 points in three games, including 18 against Canfield. Hartshorn has 29, Robinson 25, Bush 18, Istnick 17, Bruno 13 and guard Ron Watt 6.

Robinson is also a star football player, being named a second team all-state tackle.

SALEM COACH John Cabas will probably open with the same quintet which started against Columbiana. That would be Dan Krichbaum and Dave Hunter at the guards, Eric Theiss at center and Don Davidson and Jim Solmen at forwards.

Cabas says he will keep veteran Jim Lehwald on the bench until his injured leg is completely healed. Lehwald sat out the Columbiana game because of the injury suffered in a pre-season tilt with Massillon.

Salem's Reserves under Coach Karl Zellers will also be looking for their second win Tuesday. East Palestine has an all-sophomore Reserve squad, coached by Chick McBride of Columbiana High School fame.

The Reserve tilt will get underway at 7 p.m. with the varsity game slated to follow at 8:30.

Celts, Hawks Post Pair Of Victories

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics and the St. Louis Hawks are making run-aways of the division races in the National Basketball Assn.

The Celtics and Hawks posted a pair of victories each over the weekend to extend their winning streaks and pull further away from the pack in the eastern and western divisions.

Boston stretched its victory skein to 12 Sunday night with a 132-127 triumph over the Syracuse Nats after edging the New York Knicks 119-116 in a nationally televised game Saturday afternoon.

St. Louis boosted its string to five by whipping the Detroit Pistons 102-86 Sunday. The Hawks routed the Philadelphia Warriors 102-89 Saturday night.

As a result of their weekend successes, the Celtics own a 6½ game lead over runner-up Philadelphia in the east and the Hawks are 5½ games ahead of Detroit in the west.

HEAD AND SHOULDERS — Yan Krumins, all seven feet, three inches and 320 pounds of him, makes it look easy, while his Russian teammate, Maigonis Valomanis, a mere five feet, eleven, seems miles away from the basket rim.

New Pro Football League Confronted by Fresh Challenge

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The new pro football league was confronted today with a fresh challenge in Minneapolis-St. Paul by loyalists of the National League and a man from out of the sport's frontier days.

"If the National League extends us a franchise we expect to be operating in 1960," said Ole Haugsrud, Duluth sportsman and tobacco wholesaler who owned the Duluth Eskimos in the NFL more than three decades ago.

With his $25,000 earnest money check to league headquarters went an application that bore the signature, among others in the combine, of Ernie Nevers of San Francisco, one of football's all-time greats and a member of the old Eskimos.

Haugsrud's application, and the apparent encouragement it received from several NFL owners, signaled another collision between forces of the National League and the new American Football League over the Twin Cities territory.

Unbeaten OSU, Cincinnati Face Tough Foes This Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Basketball activity will be relatively light this week as most Ohio teams begin a holiday respite.

But the Buckeye State's Big Two, Cincinnati and Ohio State, continue their push toward a national championship against some classy opposition.

Unbeaten Ohio State (6-0) probably is in for its toughest test of the young season when Coach Fred Taylor's Buckeyes tangle with red-hot Utah. The Utes, sporting an unsullied record, are rugged enough under normal circumstances but twice as potent on their home court.

If the Bucks gets by this one, they'll have to contend with Brigham Young on Tuesday, but the Cougars appear to small and inexperienced for the likes of Ohio State.

Cincinnati (5-0), fresh from a surprisingly easy triumph over highly-touted Louisville Saturday, clashes with undefeated Bradley Tuesday in the Missouri Valley opener for both.

Something's got to give in this one. The Braves are loaded, as usual, but the Bearcats have a feller by the name of Oscar Robertson who could make the difference.

The "Big O" dropped in 39 points Saturday and displayed some other basketball magic as Cincinnati routed the Cards, 97-74, before 16,500 in Louisville's Freedom Hall.

Cincinnati journeys to New York Saturday to participate in the Holiday Festival Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

In top games last Saturday, Dayton boosted its record to 5-1 with a 60-48 win over the Citadel. Gary Roggenbuck tallied 22 and retrieved 13 rebounds to pace the Flyers.

Xavier (4-1) bounced Seattle, 26-65, behind soph Jack Thobe's 27 points and 14 rebounds.

Unbeaten Steubenville grabbed victory No. 4, whipping Western Illinois, 85-62, as John Blanda hit for 26 points.

Ohio University dropped its third straight, a touch 85-79 loss to Illinois. Mount Union trounced Wayneburg, 100 - 61, Lawrence Tech trimmed Otterbein, 104-88. St. Francis (Pa.) walloped Youngstown, 102-66, and Gannon tripped Baldwin-Wallace, 73-62.

United Bows 46-38 to Portage High

United played its poorest game of the season Saturday at Portage Southeast High and went down to a 46-38 defeat.

With the exception of a 17-point effort by Jim Summer, the Golden Eagles could muster little in the way of an offense. United led 7-4 after the first quarter and was still on top at halftime 17-12.

Portage finally started hitting the hoop in the third quarter to wrestle away the lead 30-27 by the end of the period. The Pirates outscored United 16-11 in the final period to send the Eagles down to their second defeat in five outings.

Bill Henning led Southeast with 13 points. The victory was the Pirates' first after three straight setbacks.

United will attempt to get back on the winning track Tuesday when they travel to Leetonia to meet the Bears, winners in two of three games.

North Lima Is Handed 4th Defeat

North Lima went down to its fourth defeat in five games Saturday as invading Lordstown pasted the Zippers with an 87-63 setback.

John Culp collected 22 points for North Lima but his efforts were more than offset by Lordstown's Dave Majick and Larry Getz who combined for 49 markers. Majick poured through 28 points and Getz 21.

Both teams started out at a rapid pace, with Lordstown moving to a 25-20 first period lead. In the next two quarters North Lima was outscored 45-20 as Lordstown shot its way to victory for the seventh time in nine games.

Lordstown also won the Reserve game 40-34.

North Lima does not play again until Jan. 8 when they will entertain Springfield Local.

Rodriguez Faces Hart Wednesday

Cuban Is Rated No. 2 Challenger

By The Associated Press

Cuba's Luis Rodriguez, who may be the best welterweight contender in the world, will get his chance to present his case Wednesday night.

The unbeaten, 22-year-old boxer-puncher, now ranked the No. 2 challenger to welterweight champion Don Jordan, faces slick Sugar Hart of Philadelphia in a television (ABC 10 p.m., EST) 10-rounder at the Miami Beach (Fla.) auditorium.

Rodriguez (24-0) has swept past Rudell Sutch, Larry Baker and Isaac Logart in his last three fights. Seventeen months ago in Havana he stopped Charley Scott in nine rounds and today Scott is ranked top contender. Scott, however, is due for a demotion following his upset loss to Benny (Kid) Paret last Friday night.

It was the same Scott who scored a ninth round technical knockout over Hart at Philadelphia last Oct. 19. Scott became the No. 1 contender, and Hart, who had been first, was dropped to third behind Rodriguez. Hart's record is 28-4-2.

In another important welterweight bout, in Havana, Cuba, Wednesday night, Cuba's Florentino (Ox) Fernandez and Filipino Rocky Kalingo clash in a return 10-rounder.

Kalingo, an in- and - outer, startled the boxing world and Fernandez by knocking out the previously undefeated Cuban in the first round at Caracas, Venezuela, last month. Fernandez had won 22 straight and was being boomed for a title fight.

Northwest Bows 68-50 To Wellsville

Northwest Indians, kingspins of the Stark County Class A League, saw their six game winning streak swept by the boards Saturday night by the invading Wellsville Tigers.

Led by high scoring Bob Kiggins who dumped in 26 points, the Tigers chalked up a convincing 68-50 victory. It was their fourth straight win after a 71-43 setback in the season's opener at Midland, Pa.

Kiggins did all of his damage on 13 goals. He was the only Wellsville player to score in double figures.

Terry Sense, Bud Treisch and Jerry May each had 12 points for Northwest.

After battling to an 11-11 first period deadlock, Wellsville pulled to the front 31-21 by halftime and was in command 50-35 at the three quarter mark.

The Tigers did some sharp-shooting, hitting 28 of 70 for 40 per cent and added 12 of 23 fouls. The Indians hit only 21 of 73 fielders for 28 per cent and 8 of 17 free throws.

Wellsville maintained control around the boards with its height. The Tigers do not play again until Jan. 8 when they entertain Toronto.

Wellsville—68
Kiggins 13-0-26; Franklin 1-2-4; DeSarro 1-1-3; Baldwin 2-1-5; Jackson 1-1-3; Compretto 7-5-19; Lamp 3-2-8.

500 Colt Fans Brave Cold To Get Tickets

BALTIMORE (AP) — Some 500 Baltimore Colts fans proved their loyalty by spending Sunday night in sub-freezing weather outside Memorial Stadium.

As dawn approached, the harty group of all-night campers was joined by thousands more seeking tickets for the National Football league championship game between the Colts and New York Giants here next Sunday.

About 7,000 general admission tickets went on sale at 9 a.m. with a limit of two to a customer.

While their fans were fighting the battle of the ticket line, the Colts rested Sunday and today. They will resume practice Tuesday. Intensive workouts are set for Wednesday on offense and Thursday on defense, and they will taper off with a light drill Friday, Christmas Day.

Boosters Club Session This Week Canceled

The regular Thursday meeting of the Salem Boosters Club has been canceled this week, according to President Walt DeJame.

The next Boosters meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 7, in the Memorial Building.

27 College Cage Tournaments To Get Under Way Saturday

By The Associated Press

The nation's cage-conscious colleges will be up to their ears in basketball during the long holiday spell starting Saturday. There will be no fewer than 27 tournaments and they will be played in every section of the country.

Greatest interest, from the fans' viewpoint, should stem from New York and Los Angeles, which will hold separate eight-team Holiday Festivals featuring some of the top quintets of the nation.

New York's Madison Square Garden boasts unbeaten Cincinnati with its great Oscar Robertson, regarded as perhaps the outstanding college player today. The new Los Angeles Sports Arena will highlight unbeaten West Virginia, winner of the recent Kentucky Invitation, with it's All America Jerry West.

The New York Festival, eighth of its kind, starts Saturday and will extend through Wednesday, Dec. 30. The Los Angeles Festival, its first, runs from Monday through Wednesday.

Other top flight tournaments include the Far West Classic at Corvallis, Ore.; Big Eight at Kansas City; Southwest at Houston; All College at Oklahoma City; Blue Grass at Louisville; Sugar Bowl at New Orleans; Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N.C.; Hurricane Classic at Miami; and Queen City at Buffalo.

Six currently undefeated teams are entered in the two Festivals. In addition to Cincinnati, the New York unbeaten are Dartmouth and New York U. The pairings list Manhattan (4-1) vs. St. Joseph's of Phila. (5-1), Iowa (5-1) vs. St. John's of Brooklyn (5-2), NYU (5-0) vs. Dartmouth (2-0) and Cincinnati (5-0) vs. St. Bonaventure (2-2).

Illinois and California, the defending national collegiate champion now riding a 21-game winning streak, join West Virginia in the Los Angeles unbeaten contestants. The pairings are Southern California (3-2) vs. Northwestern (2-2) West Virginia (8-0) vs. Stanford (3-1), UCLA (3-4) vs. Michigan (1-3), and California (5-0) vs. Illinois (4-0).

Cincinnati and West Virginia must be ranked 1-2 in the nation, followed by California, Ohio State (6-0) and Bradley (6-0). The Bearcats of Ohio smashed a highly rated Louisville team 97-74 Saturday night. Cincinnati has a Tuesday home date with Bradley before moving to New York for the tournament.

West Virginia, whipped Kentucky 79-70 to capture the Kentucky Invitation Saturday.

California won its 20th and 21st straight by beating Colorado, 51-47, on Friday and 79-46 on Saturday.

Utah has three games this week before competing in the Dixie Classic Dec. 28. Others in that tournament include Duke, North Carolina, North Carolina State, Wake Forest, Dayton, Holy Cross and Minnesota.

East Liverpool Is Subdued By McKinley

Canton McKinley sent East Liverpool down to its third straight defeat after one victory by subduing the Potters 56-44 Saturday night at Canton Field House.

Floyd McIlwain of the Bulldogs ruined the Potters with his sharp shooting. The McKinley ace dropped in 31 points in leading his team to its second win in four games.

Kenny Cunningham picked up 13 points to pace East Liverpool. Cunningham upped his four-game point total to 62, tops for the Potter quintet. Phil Chan added 12 markers to the losing cause.

McKinley jumped off to an early lead only to have East Liverpool fight back to within two points, 36-34 at the third period buzzer. The Bulldogs outscored their visitors 20-10 in the last quarter to sew up the victory.

East Liverpool will be heavy underdogs in their next outing on Jan. 2, at Midland, Pa. Unbeaten Midland owns a 71-43 victory over Wellsville, a team that creamed the Potters 55-38 one week ago.

Canton McKinley—56

The Fateful Fifties: Part 1

TV Ripped Hollywood Boom

Editor's Note—The ways of life, work and business in Hollywood changed more during the decade just closing than during any similar period in movieland's history. Here, in the first of a series of four articles, Bob Thomas of The Associated Press takes a critical, yet sympathetic, look at Hollywood during its fateful Fifties—recalling the good and the bad and, in particular, pinpointing the seven cardinal sins that have seriously changed the picture.

It was a decade colored by Kim Novak's lavender, Jayne Mansfield's pink, and Liberace's gold lame. It was the decade of Elvis Presley, Davy Crockett, Brigitte Bardot, wide screens, 3D and "I Was a Teen-Age Werewolf."

It was also the decade of greatest change since Hollywood rose out of the grapefruit groves. There was even greater change than during transition from silents to talkies in the 30s.

Ten years ago, there were 150 stars making important pictures. Today, only a dozen are considered box office naturals.

Ten years ago, the studios still ruled supreme and controlled long lists of stars. Today, hardly any stars are under contract and the bigger ones can dictate their terms to the studios.

The major studio operation is as dead as the nickelodeon. Two ture business — Republic and RKO; others are selling their property and leasing back. All of the lots are now largely clusters of independent producers.

Even the social aspects of Hollywood have changed. No longer do the Cohns, Warners, Mayers, Schencks, and Zanucks rule film-town society. The big guns are the top stars—the Sinatras, Coopers, Stewarts, Douglasses, Grants. TV was the major factor that shattered Hollywood's prosperity of the Frantic Forties. Theater attendance plummeted from the 1947 high of 90 million weekly to 45 million in 1957.

Six thousand movie houses out of 18,500 closed their doors in the past 10 years. Few new theaters have been built, although drive-ins have increased from 1,200 to 5,000.

While the population rose from 150 million in 1950 to 175 million in 1959, nearly every other industry expanded. But the film business shrank. The major companies turned out 408 features in 1957 and 320 in 1951. This year the total will be under 200.

There were other factors besides TV that brought about the films' decline. The move to the suburbs helped kill off many downtown theaters. The new leisure changed people's entertainment habits. Americans had time and money to lavish on home projects, motoring, boating, etc. And Hollywood itself failed to come up with attractions to maintain movie going, once a national habit.

Two Meetings At Columbiana Are Delayed Until January

COLUMBIANA — Postponement of two meetings have been announced by local organizations. A meeting of the Girl Scout Inter-Troop Committee, scheduled for today, has been delayed until Jan. 18, and the December session of the Columbiana Stamp Club has been put off until Jan. 14.

Meanwhile, an appeal for assistant leaders for Girl Scout and Brownie troops has been issued. The aides are needed with Brownie Troop 2, headed by Mrs. Ida Lipe; Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 5, headed by Mrs. Virginia Knotts, and Intermediate Troop 8, headed by Mrs. Betty Houlette. Volunteers may contact any troop leader, or Mrs. Charles Porter.

The Jan. 14 meeting of the Stamp Club inaugurates its new policy of two meetings per month. The session on the 14th will be open to young people of the community interested in collecting, and adults of the club will be on hand to give advice. The second monthly meeting, on Jan. 27, will be open to adults only.

"CHRISTMAS THOUGHTS" is the program topic for tonight's meeting of Rotary Club at Valley Golf Club. Several club members will take part in the program, which is headed up by Russ Lindsay.

Columbiana Mothers Club will stage a party for children of members tonight at the Presbyterian Church, starting with a 6 o'clock coverdish dinner. The committee on arrangements consists of Mrs. Harold Armstrong, chairman, Mrs. Mount Pursiful Jr. and Mrs. Blaine Thompson.

Pandora Rebekah Lodge will meet tonight at 8 in the lodge hall. A Christmas party is planned and will include a poke lunch and gift exchange.

These names have been added to the list of officers installed recently by the Order of Eastern Star: Mrs. Bonnie Moser, marshal; Mrs. Kathleen Husted, organist; Mrs. Miriam Husted, Adah; Mrs. Edith Hooper, Ruth; Mrs. Betty Elder, Esther; Mrs. Mildred Liston, Martha; Mrs. Marie Cyrus, Electa; Mrs. Madeline Garrod, warder, and Robert McMurray, sentinel.

While vacationing recently in Florida, Mrs. Harold Oaks, 114 Court St., hooked and landed a 7-foot, 10-inch sailfish weighing 57 pounds. It has been entered in the annual fishing tournament at Boynton Beach, Fla.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

We are really a special band of reporters — we who have covered Leonine John Lewellyn Lewis. We have covered the last giant. We have heard him say to his soot-faced miners, stand fast, they cannot dig coal with bayonets. He has damned the National Guard in strikes. He has invigiled against Presidents. Yet he has permitted coal to be dug by television.

Victor Riesel invigiled against Presidents. Yet he has permitted coal to be dug by television.

And that is the saga of John Lewis. Through closed circuit TV eyes, control panel operators far from the face of the pit watch digging machinery and conveyor belts move the coal up to the surface without benefit of human hands. It is such machinery which has dug into the heart of the great United Mine Workers of America. Hundreds of thousands of coal diggers have been replaced by mechanization. By permitting this, John Lewis has permitted the dissolution of his empire. Today he leaves little of his once mighty army of 650,000 miners. BUT HE HAS SAVED an industry which today can sell American coal in Germany, Belgium and England for $3-$4 less a ton than their own black fuel right in their own backyard. Long ago Lewis saw the inevitability of the machine replacing the man below the earth. He began to build his welfare fund into a 125-million-dollar-a-year pool of cash. Today there are some 150,000 miners on pension. They are being joined by another 10,000 men a year. Today there are less than 180,000 men in the union. In a decade the United Mine Workers Union will be a majestic relic of ancient days with few men actually tearing coal out of the face with picks. But the miners of today will live on their pensions. They will be doctored by the clinics and the 10 hospitals Lewis has built. There is a great treasury and the powerful bank owned by the union in Washington. Having cared for his men and his industry, having outlived all the giants, having solved as much of the problem of coal as he could, John L. Lewis decided to leave majestically through a side door instead of fighting for the center of the stage at 80 years of age. He leaves those coal diggers who are working earning the world's greatest industrial wage — an average of $26 a day. And this is really one of the shortest work days, in modern industrialism. His people are paid portal-to-portal.

They are paid for their lunch hours. MUCH WILL BE WRITTEN of his jousting with powerful men. But the real story of John Lewis is the story of how he left the coal industry. He saved it. He encouraged smaller uneconomic mines to merge into efficient big coal companies. There were more industrialists knocking on his union door than at the mortgage and loan departments of giant banks. The industry's relations with him are reflected in the words of the president of the Pittston Coal Co., owner of mines, owner of the U.S. Trucking Corp., and owner of Brink's Inc. He said of Lewis recently: "He has encouraged mecation and demanded his share of the profits, with which I have no dispute." Joseph P. Routh, Pittston president, added, "He has never condoned or allowed featherbedding in any form or manner and he has cooperated with the operators both financially and otherwise to maintain and increase our market." Lewis has done this by deciding that the miners' organization was really expendable where the welfare of the nation was involved. Not the existence of the union, and not its strength, but its size was expendable. Lewis has said that he was not the leader to be concerned with the number of men who went down the pits. THE YOUNG MEN will go off the mine patches and find other jobs, he has said. And the older miners will live on the pensions. Those who continue to work will have the greatest income of their lives. Thus the average coal output of each man in an American mine today is 12 tons per day against a ton-and-a-half in Europe or Russia. The Pittston mines are planning to mechanize so they can get 45 tons a day per man. And despite the $26 a day wage, the price of coal at the mine head has actually gone down. In 1948, the price was $4.99 a ton. Today it is $4.86 a ton — down 13 cents. It took courage to do this just as it took courage to tell U.S. Presidents not to bother him or to try to mine coal with bayonets. And so, it took courage to step aside when the work of an era was done. It took the courage of a giant. John L. Lewis is that giant. We who covered him now have a mystique among us, which never will leave us. The Hall Syndicate You can find almost anything with a News Want Ad! Dial ED 2-4601

Do Some Arithmetic Before Stringing Christmas Lights

Christmas is the holiday that brings out the amateur electrician in all of us. For most of us the efforts will pay off with a sparkling and glittering holiday. For a few the efforts will bring on a tragic aftermath of fire and injury.

Even the most careful person may run into trouble if he waits until the last minute and then hastily drags out last year's strings of lights and puts them up quickly without examining them.

Inspect carefully. Plug each string in separately. If lights flicker after you've tightened all the bulbs it means sockets may be loose or there may be a short in the wire. Examine the strings carefully (while disconnected) for broken, frayed spots.

Replace Preferred
Replace defective strings. Use strings of lights that are connected in parallel, especially for outdoor decorations. Parallel connections permit the remaining bulbs to continue burning even though one or more has burned out.

Use only the light strings designed for exterior use for outdoor lighting. Extensions should be of heavy-duty wire with weatherproof covering. Outdoor connections between cords should be wrapped with rubber or plastic tape to seal out moisture.

Use an outdoor, weatherproof outlet for your power supply if possible. Next best is use of an outdoor light, such as a porch light, after removing the bulb. Fasten extensions securely — don't let them flap in the wind.

Be Sure to Insulate
If a line is being run to a tree or display some distance from the house, run the line up the side of the house at least seven feet and secure it with an insulator. Run it from that point to the tree and tie it to a sturdy limb.

If a small shrub near the foundation is to be lighted, run the extension to the top of a stake driven in the ground.

If floodlighting the house or a display, use weatherproof bulbs along with special outdoor receptacles.

Indoors or out, don't overload

CHRISTMAS SAFETY CIRCUIT begins with the household fuse box. Average fuse (15 amps) can carry load up to 1,800 watts. Total wattage of tree bulbs (average: 6 1/2 each) plus load of other lights and appliances should not total more than 1,800.

Circuits. An average branch circuit, fused for 15 amperes, can handle a load of about 1,800 watts. Circuits of heavier wire and protected with 20-amp fuses can handle up to 2,400 watts if divided through several outlets.

used in strings connected in series (when one bulb goes, they all go out) is rated at five watts. The next larger, and now the most popular, used in indoor parallel strings, is rated at 6 1/2 watts. The larger bulb used in outdoor strings is a 10-watt bulb. Floodlights and spotlights are generally 150 watts each.

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M.D.

How to Reduce Weight Without Diet

Here are recommendations to help you:

1. Lose weight without losing strength.

2. Scale down to the weight best suited to your individual needs, by eating and drinking only what is ordinarily served at the family table and stored in the family cupboard.

3. Maintain "fighting weight" without adding to household chores or expenses.

4. Reduce your blood pressure to your normal level without taking producing or vitamin-and mineral fortified products.

For breakfast, eat a whole orange. This will supply C vitamin and bulk. Taken in place of a glass of juice, it will reduce your daily intake by 100 to 200 calories.

Take a generous helping of any dry cereal. Add one teaspoonful of granulated sugar and moisten with milk.

Drink your coffee or tea without milk or cream. If you must sweeten, use a small lump of sugar whose 19 calories will add little more than one per cent to your 1,800-calorie intake.

BEFORE EACH of your two principal meals, fill your stomach with low-calorie fluids or foods. Choose between clear soup or broth, tomato or other vegetable juice, clam juice, radishes, celery, raw carrot or cauliflower, cole slaw or oysters or clams.

For the principal course of your larger meal (midday in most rural areas; evening in most urban areas) choose a normal helping of meat, fish or poultry. Trim off excess fat. For high vitamin and iron content, prefer lean cut of pork.

For the principal course of your smaller meal (midday in most urban areas; evening in most rural areas), prefer leftover meat, fish or poultry. If meal is eaten out, take hamburger or hot dog with half the included roll.

TO LIVE the taste of the principal course at either meal, you can use mustard, catsup, chili, horseradish or India relish, but avoid gravies made with flour and dressings made with bread.

With the principal course of the principal meal take a green and a yellow vegetable. With the lesser meal, take a salad with mineral oil dressing.

For dessert at the end of both meals, select fruit in season, but preferably an apple or a pear. As a special treat, place a thin slice of hard cheese on a segment of the fruit. Wash your food down with hot or iced coffee or tea.

For between meal feedings, and the snack at bedtime, take any of the fillers listed above. If you feel the need for something more substantial, spread cottage cheese on a few thin wafers and drink a glass of vitamin D-fortified milk.

(On the day you start this regimen, weigh yourself and make a note of what you're wearing.) I'll have more to say about the weight reduction diet in another column.

CASTLE FURNITURE - 145 SOUTH LUNDY AVE.

Paneled Laundry Is Eye-Catching But Practical Too

Where to locate the laundry is a problem in some homes. In others it is simply a question of making it functional and attractive. If you have adequate space it always makes planning easier. Perhaps the basement is the right spot, or perhaps there's room for a washer and drier either in or off the kitchen. On the other hand, you may feel that they belong in the bathroom and, if you are lucky enough to have bathroom large enough, that is a good place since soiled linen can either be put into the machine or in a hamper next to it.

The spot where you put your laundry will be governed by your own needs and your floor plan. But no matter where it goes, you can take advantage of the space you have and make the most of it by creating built-ins to hold washer, drier, clothes bin or basket. If it is in a large enough room, you can incorporate a closet to hold an ironing board with shelves for other laundry supplies.

All these built-ins will look particularly attractive if made from lumber in either a clear or knotty grade. Ten excellent species of wood grow in the western pine region. The lumber is carefully graded and scientifically dried and it comes in a nice variety of patterns (the carved moulding along the edge of each board). Thus your cabinets and doors when closed will have a uniform look that will match the rest of the room and hide your work-a-day equipment.

What's more, your paneling can be painted, stained, topped with a clear or pigmented finish in whatever hue you like best. All you will have to do is give it a waxing from time to time and it will stand up for years with no additional care beyond occasional dusting.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: We have been told that, for best results with our washing machine, the hot water should be of the "right" temperature. But the instruction booklet does not say what the right temperature is. Can you tell us?

ANSWER: For most general washing purposes, the temperature of the hot water should be 160 degrees. Your water heating apparatus undoubtedly has a device which regulates the temperature of the water. You can check whether the washing machine is getting water at the right temperature by using a water thermometer.

QUESTION: Have just started to take up woodworking. Can you tell me the difference between adjustable and non-adjustable hand screw?

ANSWER: One of the oldest types of clamps in existence, the hand screw is still used. An adjustable hand screw can be closed on surfaces that are not parallel. A non-adjustable type has the screws at right angles to the jaws and therefore can be used only on parallel surfaces.

QUESTION: I intend to do some calcimining in the near future. The instructions on the calcimine package say that the material must be strained, but it doesn't say how. Can you help me?

ANSWER: The usual method of straining calcimine is to tie a wet cheesecloth over the top of a pail. Pour the calcimine, a little at a time, into the cloth. Using your hands (wearing gloves, if you wish), break up any little lumps that form. The calcimine that passes through the cheesecloth then will be very workable. If the calcimine is not strained, it may spread poorly.

QUESTION: I am going to put up wood framing for a wall. Must I use 2-by-4's or can I get by with 2-b-3's?

ANSWER: You haven't furnished enough information for a precise answer. Generally, it depends on how much weight the framing will carry. Had you said the wall would be a partition to divide a room, I would say that 2-by-4's are preferable. But if the wall is in the basement, next to the existing masonry, 2-by-3's will do nicely.

QUESTION: I often run across the term "lag screw." Can you tell me what this is?

ANSWER: A lag screw is usually a large version of an ordinary wood screw. However, it does not have a head that is driven with a screwdriver. Instead, it has a square head that is turned with a wrench.

Glue Is Handy, But Be Sure You Use Right Kind

ONE OF THE handiest things around the house for repairs and hobby kits is glue. But if you want to do a good bonding job, you can't play hide and seek with the many kinds of glue on the market.

For wood, use liquid animal glue or casein glue. Keep this in mind:

Liquid animal glue is ready for use but it's affected by moisture.

Casein glue, which is virtually waterproof, needs mixing.

And to avoid mess in use and storage, buy glue in handy package such as a foldable metal tube.

For fixing small china items, and for the repair of toys and making of models, keep a tube of cellulose adhesive — better known as "household cement" — on hand. Cellulose glues are water resistant and flexible.

Heavier work around the house, like bonding fixtures to tile walls or cementing objects to metal or glass, requires a rubber-base adhesive. It is applied directly from a tube.

There are extremely strong glues, too. They're known as contact bond cements, and are used, for example, to cover a table top with laminated plastic.

Contact bond cements set quickly, and require fast and careful handling. Once there has been contact, it is nearly impossible to make any adjustment in the work.

There also is the old standby, solder in liquid form. Several kinds are available. They come in fold-up metal tubes and are used for bonding of light metal, wood and glass.

Holiday Greetings

At Christmas Time

If you can't go yourself, why not do the next best thing

- call your friends by telephone at Christmas time.

We shall send your voice speeding over the wires of the world for a very nominal charge. This is a most personal way to convey your Holiday greetings.

May we suggest the added comfort and convenience of making your Christmas greeting toll calls on the day before the holiday. You will have more time to make it, we will have more time to handle it and the loved one you have called will have more time to remember the occasion of this wonderful visit by telephone.

Fruitcake Is Traditional

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Traditionally, fruitcake for the holidays is almost as important as the Christmas tree. It symbolizes for many the warmth and generosity of the season.

Fruitcakes are varied to suit the tastes of individual families. Some prefer them dark and heavy with fruit and spices while others like the lighter varieties, made with light fruit and nuts with white cake batter as the base.

The two recipes for white fruitcake given here are favorites among our friends. One is heavy with light fruit and almonds; the other is made only with citron and almonds for those who like a very light Christmas cake.

Although these cakes are different, they have two things in common — each is made with white vanilla-flavored cake batter and light fruit. Since vanilla is the primary flavoring in both, use a good quality — pure vanilla extract. It will hold better through baking and as long as there's a crumb of the fruitcake left.

Light Fruitcake (Yield: 6 pounds fruitcake)

Mix together 1 pound (3 cups) blanched whole almonds, 1 pound (2½ cups) sliced candied pineapple, 15-ounce box white raisins, cut in half; ½ pound (2½ cups) sliced citron, ½ pound (2½ cups) glace cherries, cut in half; ½ cup cup preserved orange peel. Set mixture aside. Blend 1 cup sugar and 2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract with 1 cup shortening. Beat in 5 eggs, one at a time, stir in fruit and almonds. Sift 2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour with 1 tea-spoon baking powder. Add alternately with ¼ cup milk to the mixture. Line a greased 10 x 4-inch tube cake pan with brown paper. Grease paper and flour lightly. Add cake dough.

Bake in a preheated very slow oven (275 degrees F.) 3½ hours or until a cake tester comes out clean when inserted in center. (Keep a large pan of hot water on the rack underneath cake throughout the baking period to prevent the cake from becoming too dry.)

Cool in pan 30 minutes. Turn out onto a wire rack to finish cooling. Store in a tightly closed tin box.

Note: This cake can be made now, put in tin box, and kept until Christmas. Many cooks "soak" the cake in wine, brandy, rum, etc., before closing tin. The cake improves with standing.

HealthHints

by Salem
Area Chiropractors

The usual discomforts that occur during pregnancy—backaches, leg cramps, abdominal pains, are the result of physical alterations and changes which occur during that period. The most marked of these takes place in the abdominal and pelvic areas where the child is developing and in the lower back, which must alter its position to accommodate the increased weight, by correspondingly increasing the depth of the curve of the lower back.

This curve increase often creates the appearance of "sway-back." It develops rapidly during the period of pregnancy. Following this increased growth in the abdominal area, organs become crowded. The mother's body changes to keep pace with the weight increase. If the mother's back is not flexible enough for this change to come about, backaches will occur, and all of the conditions mentioned above may develop. Crowded organs encourage constipation and circulatory failure symptoms. These are all effected by physical changes, and the lack of accommodation by the mother. Therefore, we must direct considerable attention to the physical state of the expectant mother.

The important care here must come from the chiropractor who specializes in the treatment of the spine, for this is the location of the difficulties that derive from the rapid physical change. Consultation with the doctor of chiropractic will bring prompt relief and correction of these conditions. Such attention, plus moderate exercises and proper diet and hygiene, will be of great value to the expectant mother.

Fruit Nut Bars

Use ¾ cup sifted flour, 1 tea-spoon baking powder, ½ tea-spoon salt, ¾ cup dark brown sugar, 3 eggs, ¾ cup butter or margarine (melted), 1 tea-spoon vanilla, 1 cup fresh pitted dates (sliced), 1 can (3½ ounces) coconut, ½ cup walnuts (chopped).

Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and brown sugar into a medium-sized mixing bowl. Beat eggs until lemon-colored; add dry ingredients.

Stir in dates, coconut and walnuts. Turn into buttered baking pan (9 by 9 by 1¼ inches).

Bake in slow (325 degrees) oven about 45 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean.

Place on cake rack until cool. Cut into bars with a very sharp knife; remove with small spatula and roll bars in confectioners' sugar. Store in tightly covered container.

Mincemeat Parfait Is Novel

Mincemeat pies are, of course, a traditional dessert at Christmas. But here is something new for neat parfait.

Mincemeat Parfait (4 to 6 servings, depending on glass size)

One (18 or 22-ounce) jar prepared, ready-to-use mincemeat; 1 cup Spanish sherry or cider, 1 package dessert topping mix, red maraschino cherries and mint leaves for garnish, if desired.

In saucepan, blend mincemeat with sherry or cider; bring to boil, stirring occasionally. Chill well.

Shortly before serving time, whip topping as label directs. Reserve enough whipped topping for garnish. Fold remaining topping into well-chilled mincemeat mixture until a marbled effect is obtained.

Spoon into parfait glasses. Garnish with reserved topping; top with cherries and mint leaves, if desired. Serve with sugar wafers or lady fingers.

Apple Cake

1-3 cup shortening, 2 cups granulated sugar, 1 tsp. vanilla, 1 egg, 2½ cups sifted cake flour, 2 tea-spoon baking powder, 2 tea-spoon cinnamon, ¼ tea-spoon salt, ¾ cup milk, 3½ cups canned apple slices (drained) or stewed apples, 2 table-spoons butter, 2 table-spoons cake flour.

Cream together shortening and 2 cups sugar, add vanilla and egg, beat well. Sift together 2½ cups flour, baking powder, and salt. Add alternate with milk to creamed mixture. Pour into greased pan 13" x 9" x 2". Place canned or stewed apple slices over batter.

Blend together butter, 2 table-spoons flour and cinnamon and sprinkle over apples. Bake in moderate oven 375 degrees 50 minutes, serve warm with ice cream or whipped cream.

Apple Pancake

2 cups enriched flour, 2 table-spoons sugar, 2 tea-spoons baking powder, 1 tea-spoon salt, 2 beaten eggs, 1½ cups milk, 2 table-spoons melted butter, 1 cup finely chopped apples or chopped stewed apples.

Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Combine eggs, milk and butter, stir into dry ingredients. Mix in apples. Bake on hot griddle. Makes about 12 pancakes. Serve with sausage.

Caramel Squares

When you're taken with a sudden yearning for something sweet to nibble on, here's a caramel nut candy you can make in a trice.

Melt a cup of caramel chips over hot water, add 2-3 cups nuts and mix well. Spread on a shallow pan, chill, then cut into 1-inch squares. It makes about 2 dozen squares, so nibble away to your hearts' content, especially since it's so easy just to fix up a second batch!

CENTURY REDEEMS ALL WELFARE & RELIEF ORDERS:

Rice Snowballs Go With Beef

For dinner nothing is more elegant than a lordly standing rib roast of beef. To the English and American descendants of English families, it is as traditional as the yule log, holly and mistletoe.

The "first" cut of rib is the finest and therefore the best choice. In purchasing, make certain you get the finest quality beef. Get at least a two-rib roast. A minimum allowance is 1-3 pound per serving, but you will want to plan generously for the holiday meal in order to have second servings and leftovers.

A standing rib roast of beef is easy itself to prepare. It comes with a natural "built-in" rack. Place the roast fat side up in a shallow pan, resting on the curve of the bone. Do not add water and do not cover. For an exact guide to doneness, insert a roast meat thermometer. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until the thermometer indicates 140 degrees F. for rare, 160 degrees F. for medium or 170 degrees F. for well done meat. Let the roast stand at least ½ hour before carving to allow the juices to "set."

Garnish the handsome standing rib roast with edible snowballs or scoops of hot cooked rice mixed with curry-aparted cream of celery soup. Top with quarters of raw cranberry to form a poinsettia design.

Rice Snowballs

(Yield: 8 balls ½ cup each)
Four cups cooked rice, 1 cup undiluted cream of celery soup, ½ teaspoon curry powder, cranberries.

Cook rice according to package directions. While hot, add soup and curry powder. When ready to serve, scoop snowballs with ice cream scoop, unmolding on roast beef platter. Garnish with quarter wedges of fresh cranberries to make poinsettia design.

Hanoverton

Adult choir of the Christian Church will present a Christmas cantata at 11 a.m. Sunday. Sunday evening the Children's Christmas program and party will be held in the church.

Primary Department of the Presbyterian Church Sunday School will present a Christmas program at 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

Members of the Women's Guild of the Presbyterian Church will sponsor an adult Christmas program Sunday evening in the church.

Junior choir members of the Presbyterian Church will go caroling Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rush of Anchorage, Alaska have ended a visit of several days in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rush, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lindesmith and children of Alliance visited Sunday afternoon in the homes of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lindesmith, his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McCombs and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ritchey.

Fifteen tables were filled at a card party Saturday evening at the parish hall of St. Philip Neri's Catholic Church in Dunganon.

Euchre prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wilson of Alliance, Mrs. William Humphrey of Kensington, R.D. and Galen Bowman of Lisbon, R.D.

Prizes in 500 were won by Mrs. Mancel Ridgeway of Hanoverton, Marcelle Bielski of Guilford Lake, Mrs. Anna Maley of East Liverpool and Mr. H. Wilke of Lisbon.

A country store was featured and lunch was served by Mrs. Paul Karafa and committee of the Columbiana County Deanery Council of Catholic Women.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Andre and children of Sebring were Sunday evening visitors with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Andre. Mrs. Roy Hull attended a Christmas party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Morrow at Alliance on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Cecil Thomas is convalescing at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Roach, after being discharged from Salem Central Clinic.

There were 15 present when Legion and Auxiliary members and their families held a covered dish dinner on Sunday evening at the Legion Home. A Christmas gift exchange was held for the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kupinski and children were Sunday supper guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davis at New Garden, as they honored the birthday anniversaries of Sheryl Kupinski, and Mikey Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kupinski were hosts when they held a Christmas dinner party for the employee's of the Kupinski Hardware and Plumbing Store in Hanoverton, at Timmerlanes in Salem Monday evening.

There were approximately 50 present Tuesday evening when the Women's Guild members and their families held a covered dish dinner at the Presbyterian Church.

Following the dinner, Santa Claus made his appearance with gifts for the children. The Guild members and their husbands then decorated the Church Christmas tree.

The next regular meeting of the Guild members will be Tuesday evening, Jan. 5th in the home of Mrs. Helen Schmid.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kupinski and daughters, Sheryl, Lynn, Paty and Diana celebrated Wednesday evening at Timmerlanes in Salem, the 13th birthday of Sheryl.

Mrs. Elma Ray was hostess when members of the Pedro Club met for a covered dish dinner and Christmas party Tuesday evening.

Following the dinner, they exchanged Christmas gifts. The remainder of the evening was spent by playing cards. Honors were awarded to Mrs. Florence Ritchey and Mrs. Mary Lindesmith of Hanoverton and Mrs. Bernice Cameron of Homeworth, RD.

The group will meet Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 5. Mrs. Ritchey will be hostess for the luncheon at 1 p.m. at the Ashland Service Restaurant in Hanoverton. There were 26 present Sunday when the Youth Fellowship group held a Christmas party at the Christian church annex.

Charles Trogh led the decoration. The business meeting was conducted by the president, Tommy Crowell and entertainment and games were handled by Dewey Faloon. The group exchanged gifts.

A special gift was presented to Merle Crowell, who is the Council supervisor. Lunch was served by the councilors.

Youth Fellowship is a newly organized group. The first meeting was held in November. Their officers are:

President; Tommy Crowell, vice president; Mary Helen Trought, secretary; Judy Wilson, treasurer; Polly Sharp.

Mrs. Helen Wilson, Mrs. Lucille Crowell, Mrs. Twila Kupinski and Mrs. Elizabeth Trough are counselors.

Southern Area Youth Rally will be held in the Christian Church at Hanoverton Jan. 25. The purpose of this organization is mainly for Bible study.

Honey Crescents

Use 2 packages active dry yeast, ¼ cup warm water, ¼ cup scalded milk, ½ cup shortening, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 4½ cups sifted flour, peanut butter honey filling, butter or margarine (melted).

Sprinkle yeast over water; stir until dissolved. To hot scalded milk, add shortening, sugar and salt; cool.

Add to yeast mixture with eggs. Add 1 cup of the flour and beat (at least 60 strokes) until mixture is thoroughly combined.

Continue to beat in flour, ½ cup at a time, adding enough to make a dough that clings to itself in a ball. Cover bowl and refrigerate 24 hours. Divide into fourths.

Roll out each piece on a floured board into an 11-inch circle ¼-inch thick. Cut each round into 8 pie shaped wedges. Spread with peanut butter honey filling. Roll starting from wide side and end to form crescent.

Dip each roll into melted butter or margarine and set two inches apart on greased baking sheet. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk (1 to 2 hours). Bake in hot (450 degrees) oven 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 2½ dozen.

Peanut Butter Honey Filling

Blend 2-3 cup peanut butter, 2-3 cup honey, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ Teaspoon allspice and 1 teaspoon cinnamon; spread on crescent wedges.
